ment in the first place he would not have objected. The maintenance of law and order was of first importance and if the minister responsible for it felt a change was imperative he would not oppose the change.

The minister, replying to Mr. Bennett, said Major-General D. M. Ormond, superintendent of penitentiaries, had served him loyally, faithfully and industriously. He was sorry the discussion had turned on a matter of personality as the work imposed on the superintendent was too heavy for one man.

At present, the penitentiaries are administered by the superintendent and three inspectors who are officers of the Justice Department. The bill will substitute a commission of three under the Minister of Justice.

10-YEAR TERMS

The commissioners will hold office for 10 years, but may be removed at any time for cause. They will constitute a corporate body which will act as agent for the Dominion Government.

They will devote their whole time to their positions and will be paid such sums as the government may determine. They will have control and management of all the penitentiaries and of all prisoners and other persons confined in them.

Subject to approval of the Justice Minister, the commission will make rules and regulations for management, discipline and policy of penitentiaries, work and industry within the penitentiaries.

THREE ASSISTANTS

If necessary the government may appoint not more than three

Inquiry By Army Stirs British M.P.'s

assistant commissioners. The government will also continue to appoint wardens, deputy wardens and other administrative and executive officers. Guards, trade instructors and subordinate officers, employees and servants will be appointed by the commission. The assistant commissioners will fill the role now filled by the inspectors to some extent. They will be required to visit, inspect and report on each penitentiary, and receive and report on suggestions of the wardens and other officers.

WOULD CAUSE CRITICISM

During the debate in the House last night, when Mr. Bennett urged the measure be left over till the next session of Parliament, the Minister of Justice said Maj.-Gen. Ormond would be entitled to a pension. The government would be following the line of least resistance if it delayed action on the commission's report and would be open to grave criticism. He was not approving the entire report and the important recommendations with reference to parole would go over to another session.

He had many applications, the minister said, for appointment to the proposed commission, but would not act on any of them. The appointment would not be political.

Mr. Bennett denounced the Archambault Commission for its statements on the inquiry conducted five years ago into the firing of bullets into the cell of Tim Buck, Toronto Communist, during a riot in the Kingston penitentiary.

The opposition leader also scored the treatment accorded Maj.-Gen. Ormond, appointed during the last Conservative regime as superintendent of penitentiaries. Gen. Ormond was not a political appointee, he said, but was selected by an independent committee appointed by the Civil Service Commission.

MANY QUESTIONS

The commission had taken evidence of scores of convictions against Superintendent Ormond without the latter knowing who had testified against him. Later Superintendent Ormond had been grilled for eight days by "three astute lawyers" who had recommended he be immediately dismissed, Mr. Bennett said.

In the Buck case the commission had ventured five years after, to say the inquiry conducted by three penitentiary officials, Maj.-Gen. Ormond and Inspectors J. D. Dawson and W. H. Craig, had been dishonest, Mr. Bennett said. Conclusions of the royal commission had been reached without having examined a single witness who had been present at the rioting.

tom, the Deuxieme Bureau keeps a close watch on the Maginot Line, France's elaborate underground chain of fortifications facing Germany.

Scores of spies are arrested in the zone each year. They are the "little fellows," the men who do the dangerous work of mapping out defence work or snapping forbidden photographs.

French justice usually is swift, but not for spies. The "little fellows" frequently are kept in jail for more than a year before they stand trial before secret military tribunals.

Sometimes the first public knowledge of their arrest is when the court announces its verdict. Delay gives French counter-espionage agents time to work their way into the ring that pays the "little fellow."

Canada at War If Britain Goes

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Canada must go to war if Great Britain is involved, according to Col. H. F. G. Letson, officer commanding the 14th Infantry Brigade.

"If Canada expects aid in time of trouble, surely this country must be willing to lend aid to Britain and other units of the British Commonwealth of Nations," he said at a meeting of the Board of Trade here Tuesday.

"Canada cannot sit back and hear and read of London becoming a second Barcelona."

Commons Committee Looks Into Calling of D. Sandys, M.P., Before Tribunal

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer
LONDON — Duncan Sandys dropped a resounding bombshell in the House of Commons today. The chamber echoed to the old cry of privilege.

From the Labor benches James Ede read passages from the Grand Remonstrance and the Bill of Rights, laying down the liberties of Parliament. He raised again the old issues which led to civil war between Parliament and King.

On Monday Mr. Sandys, Conservative and son-in-law of Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, told the House that as a result of a letter he had sent Rt. Hon. Leslie Hore-Belisha, Secretary for War, Attorney General Sir Donald Somervell had questioned him about the source of information contained in a letter, with an implied threat to proceedings under the Official Secrets Act.

Mr. Sandys asked for the appointment of a special committee of the Commons to investigate. The government has agreed to the committee, appointment of which Prime Minister Chamberlain will move tomorrow.

The Army Council also has appointed a board of inquiry under General Sir Edmund Ironside to investigate the source of the leakage of information.

TO APPEAR IN UNIFORM

This afternoon the thirty-year-old Mr. Sandys rising again to ask the Speaker E. A. Fitzroy for guidance, told the astonished House that "in my capacity as a territorial officer, I have received orders to appear in uniform before this military court tomorrow for the purpose of giving evidence."

"The question of how far it is permissible to compel a member of Parliament to divulge a source of information is being considered by this House," Mr. Sandys added. "In these circumstances I submit to you, sir, that it is a cross breach of the privileges of this House that I should be summoned to give evidence before this military tribunal. I accordingly ask you, sir, whether I have not made out a prima facie case of breach of privilege."

SPEAKER'S RULING
Speaker Fitzroy replied: "In giving my opinion, the House will realize that I am not giving a decision on whether a breach of privilege has taken place. All I have to decide is whether the honorable member has made out a prima facie case. I do say he has made out a prima facie case."

Then Mr. Chamberlain moved reference of Mr. Sandys' statement to the committee on privileges. The Commons adopted the motion unanimously, but not till after a lively debate and sharp Labor questioning of Mr. Hore-Belisha.

AFRONT TO HOUSE

Rt. Hon. Clement Attlee, Leader of the Opposition, said that to order Mr. Sandys to appear as an officer of the Territorial Army before a military court of inquiry while the question was still before the Commons appeared to be "a very unusual case of breach of privilege. It is an affront to this House."

The Labor benches cheered. It seemed strange, Mr. Attlee proceeded that while the matter should be under investigation in the Commons, a military court in inquiry should be established under the authority of the government.

Mr. Chamberlain returned that the military inquiry was not acting under instructions from the government. In a case of such a kind, where information had been divulged in an alleged breach of the Official Secrets Act, it would be an automatic proceeding on the part of the Army Council to establish a court of inquiry.

Mr. Eden argued a member of parliament, in matters concerning the business of parliament, was answerable to no court but parliament.

"The ministers of this government," a Labor member shouted, "cannot do what the ministers in Germany can do."

"Parliament is supreme," declared Sir Percy Harris, Liberal. "The executive must always be subordinate to the Commons."

ANOTHER OFFICER

Mr. Chamberlain pressed that there had been a misunderstanding. The purpose of the military court was not to inquire into Mr. Sandys' conduct, but to probe whether another officer had divulged secret information. The Prime Minister agreed the summons to Mr. Sandys to appear before the military court should be suspended while the committee on privileges met.

man pilots and planes are serving in it, diplomats said, means Mussolini's "influence" with Franco can assure a halt to them.

TO MALLORCA

LONDON (AP)—Two British destroyers, the Imogen and the Isis, were ordered suddenly to Mallorca today from Gibraltar. The Admiralty described the movement as "routine" in connection with the Nyon anti-piracy patrol.

The Italian-operated airplane base at Palma, Mallorca, is the source of many of the insurgent air raids on the coast of government Spain and British shipping in Spanish waters. Mallorca is 150 miles east of Spain.

Observers connected the movement of the destroyers with reports from Rome Premier Mussolini had interceded with insurgent Gen. Franco in an effort to halt attacks on British vessels.

Prime Minister Chamberlain was heckled by the opposition again at today's session of the House of Commons.

NOT NAMING COUNTRIES

At first he refused to name countries from which danger of war might arise if Great Britain used force against Gen. Franco to protect British ships and sailors.

Then he said he had "seen no reports" the British government was making representations to Mussolini over the ship bombings.

Rt. Hon. Clement R. Attlee, Labor leader, said:

"Surely the Prime Minister can answer as a matter of fact whether representations are being made in Rome without being in possession of what some newspaper thinks about it."

Mr. Chamberlain complained "the opposition is always trying to trap me into making statements."

There were hoots from the Labor benches and a cry, "A Prime Minister!"

"I would like any person who has the experience of any man in this organized group refusing to accept a job to write me a letter to that effect."

Campbell denied that any of the men were persuaded by their leaders against taking private jobs.

"As a matter of fact," he said, "three or four of our boys have picked up casual jobs in Victoria already."

The city lands department is installing sanitary conveniences for the last few years. They were residence in the Occidental, Jubilee, Empire and Ishida Hotels, owned by the city and vacant for the last few years. They were given ten days to remain there. The time will be up July 7.

Dr. Richard Felton, city medical health officer, who visits the hotels each day, recommended to the City Council that one shower be installed for each 40 men.

About 100 of the men are being taken care of in private homes. Eight outside showers with cold water only have so far been erected at the back of the Empire Hotel on Johnson Street.

The city has also found it necessary, in the interests of public health, to install new toilets and repair old ones in the hotels. Light and water have also been turned on at the city's expense.

The men do their own washing wherever they can locate a tap. They spend their waking hours the goosestep for him or anyone else."

Mayor Day said he had told Mr. Kropp "the matter would be given consideration," and that he would make a statement after "considering what procedure to take."

Mr. Croft, a first-year member of the council, has been consistently in the news lately because of his criticism of virtually every civic expenditure. He held the city was paying too much for upkeep of the Riverdale Zoo.

On June 23, on his 49th birthday, the alderman visited the zoo and then asserted the entire city council should be "arrested and charged with cruelty to animals."

When he reached the beavers' pool he remarked the "only thing I'd put in there would be Hitler."

Mr. Kropp was reluctant to discuss the matter, other than to say: "Presumably Alderman Croft visited the zoo, a civic property, in his official capacity as an alderman. Presumably he spoke in that same capacity."

HIS OWN DISCUSSION

Commenting on the protest, W. G. Angus, acting city solicitor, said that in his opinion the onus of correction or withdrawal of the remark rests with Alderman Croft.

"The statement was not made in council and is not an expression of the council," Mr. Angus said.

Mr. Croft should "at least retract his statement," Alderman George Granell commented. "As long as we are at peace with Germany we shouldn't insult their officials."

"It's just a swell-headed attempt by Hitler to stifle opinions about himself expressed in other countries," said J. J. Glass, Liberal member of the Ontario Legislature for Toronto-St. Andrew.

"If Hitler did less disagreeable things in Germany nobody would refer to him in such a manner."

F. W. Vanderbilt Called By Death

HYDE PARK, N.Y. (AP)—Frederick William Vanderbilt, 83, capitalist, railroad director and yachting enthusiast, died at his country home here today after a week's illness.

Vanderbilt followed in the footsteps of his father and two older brothers in the railroad business, but did not attain the high positions in the Vanderbilt system which they reached.

He was thoroughly grounded in railroading, having knowledge through practical experience as a young man in the various departments of the extensive railroad system which the Vanderbilt family controlled.

Unlike his father, the late William Henry Vanderbilt, and his brothers, Cornelius and William K., he was extremely unassuming in demeanor and mode of living and showed a preference for home life and travel, rather than an aggressive business career.

The third son of the late William Henry Vanderbilt and his wife, the former Maria Louisa Kissam, he was born in 1855. He graduated from Yale in 1876. His wife, the former Mrs. Alfred Torrance, whom he married in 1880, died 12 years ago.

Superannuation Changes Delayed

OTTAWA (CP)—Third and final report of the special House committee on the Civil Service Superannuation Act was tabled in the Commons yesterday afternoon by Malcolm McLean, Liberal, Melfort, Sask., committee chairman.

He moved concurrence, but A. W. Nell, Independent, Comox-Alberni, asked concurrence be considered at the next session of the House and his request was granted.

The report listed the persons who testified before the committee and added: "On account of the importance and complexity of the various submissions affecting the superannuation fund, your committee has not had sufficient time to formulate specific recommendations for this session and they recommend that a similar committee be set up to continue this inquiry during the next session of Parliament."

Canadians Cable Oxford Leader

LONDON—Cables from 12 members of the Canadian Commons, three Senators and two former ministers, including Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, were read at a dinner tendered to Dr. Frank Buchman, Oxford Group leader, by Sir George Harvey, M.P., and attended by 45 members of the Commons, representative of all parties.

"The Senate and Commons feel with you that spiritual leadership is essential to preserve democracy," read one cable signed by Senators H. A. Mullins, John T. Haig, K.C., and I. C. Fallis, by the 12 members of the House, by Conservative Organizer MacNeil, and by former Minister of Agriculture W. R. Motherwell. The message sent by Mr. Bennett read: "Your dinner to Buchman suitable recognition of spiritual force in maintaining democratic institutions. It is fitting that the Mother of Parliaments should lead the way."

Among the Canadians present were Beverley Baxter, M.P., Sir Waldron Smithers, M.P., and Eric Bentley of Toronto who, speaking for Canada, said: "The message from Ottawa demonstrates that the Dominion looks to England to give them moral and spiritual leadership to the Empire. We are applying the answer to hatred, spite and narrowness in our own Dominion, and we can yet affect Empire and world. We lead Empire development. Why not lead in fulfilling the Empire's true function in the world?"

Replying to the toast proposed by Sir George Harvey, Dr. Buchman, advocate of "moral rearmament," said: "Democracy depends for its life on the inspiration of its leaders and the high character of its citizens. God alone can provide a nation-wide program, giving inspiration and liberty for all and anticipating all other political programs."

Other messages were read by Sir George from Dutch Foreign Minister Pottin, C. J. Hambro, president of the Norwegian Parliament; Dr. E. R. W. Holsti, Foreign Minister of Finland. Representatives from Switzerland, Egypt, Greece and France were among the speakers.

Chinese government officials in the Manchou dynasty wore a badge of office consisting of 108 beads.

Eatons to Build Edmonton Store

EDMONTON—The T. Eaton Company (Western) Limited announces that it proposes to commence the erection of a new department store this year in Edmonton, at the corner of 101st Street and 102nd Avenue, which will be cleared to accommodate the new structure.

Tentative plans call for a two-story and basement building, involving an estimated expenditure of $800,000. Details are not yet completed.

Negotiations with the city of Edmonton have been underway for some time and while not entirely concluded, are progressing satisfactorily.

Scientists Told Of Gland Discovery

OTTAWA—A new hormone substance of the pituitary gland, often called "the gland in the driver's seat," was presented to the scientific world this morning by Dr. A. H. Neufeld and Dr. J. B. Collip of McGill University's department of biochemistry, Montreal.

It has "ketogenic and anti-insulin properties," which means that it forms ketone in the body and that it opposes the action of insulin so useful in treating diabetes. Dr. Collip was one of the Canadian team of research workers who developed insulin.

The new substance or substances have their origin in the "pars intermedia," or the portion of the gland between the anterior and posterior parts, Drs. Neufeld and Collip suggest. Thus there are added to the previously known products of this tiny gland its middle portions with new and perhaps important functions in the body's health and illness.

The Montreal scientists would not speculate on the physiological significance of their findings although they said they were tempted to do so. They feel that it is judicious to await further developments before doing this.

The known effects of anterior lobe extracts on growth, the thyroid glands, the male sex glands and the adrenals were differentiated from the newly-discovered fraction.

ANTI-AIRCRAFT UNITS ADDED

LONDON (CP-Havas)—Plans to increase Great Britain's specialized anti-aircraft divisions to a strength of nearly 100,000 men and to create a special section of the imperial general staff responsible for anti-aircraft defence were announced in the House of Commons yesterday by Rt. Hon. Hore-Bellisha, Secretary for War.

He told the House it was intended to increase the present strength of 43,000 men in this arm of defence to 100,000, and to marshal them in five divisions under the command of a lieutenant-general.

Another officer of the same rank would be named deputy chief of the imperial general staff with responsibility for organizing the protection of Britain's shores and cities from aerial attack.

Wider Field For Study Of Energy

By WATSON DAVIS
Director Science Service

OTTAWA—A new supply of energy for the world before the failure of coal and other power sources plunges society into stagnation is foreseen by Dr. Arthur H. Compton, University of Chicago Nobel in physics, who addressed the American Association for the Advancement of Science here last evening.

From the stars there is a good chance for science to capture and bring to earth the secret of what keeps them bright and productive of heat millennia after millennia, Dr. Compton believes.

TO STUDY ALL SOURCES

"One of the major problems of the physics of the future is to investigate all sources of energy which show promise of being important," Dr. Compton said. "A hopeful lead is the inexhaustible flow of energy from the sun and stars in the form of radiant heat. Geological records indicate that for a billion years the sun has poured heat on the earth at about the same rate as it now comes to us. Chemical energy, such as coal burning in oxygen, could not supply this power for more than 1,000 years before the sun would cool."

"Within the last 20 years, several theories of stellar heat have been put forward, the most promising of them based on atomic nuclear reactions similar to radioactivity. In the laboratory, it has been found that such nuclear reactions can be produced and are capable of supplying heat in the necessary amounts. We do not yet know, however, how these nuclear reactions are made to occur efficiently on the sun, nor have we any assurance that they can be brought about on earth in such a way as to act as a source of energy."

"It may require a decade, a century, or 1,000 years, but there appears no reason to fear man's inability to find an adequate new supply before the failure of power sources now developed limits the advance of society."

AGE OF STARS

Among other great problems that lie before the physical sciences in the future, in Dr. Compton's opinion are:

The age of the universe, now variously estimated as eternal and little more than that of the earth, will, within the next 30 years be estimated more precisely and reliably. Man may hope to find out when the world was made.

Studies of low temperature, using liquid helium at fractions of a degree above absolute zero, may be applied industrially with significant effects.

Electro-magnetic waves from a millimetre to a centimetre length may be developed with scientific and practical results.

Workers' Society Bill Voted Down

OTTAWA (CP)—A debate on communism in the House of Commons banking and commerce committee ended yesterday in rejection of a bill, already passed by the Senate, to incorporate the Workers' Benevolent Society of Canada, a Winnipeg organization now operating fraternal insurance plans under a Manitoba charter.

Paul Martin, Liberal, East Essex, Ont., touched off a debate with a motion the bill be not further proceeded with. "I oppose the bill because this is a Communist organization," he said.

J. C. Landry, Social Credit, Calgary East, said the committee had no evidence to prove the organization was Communist.

"Why worry about it, if it is not acceptable," asked Walter Kuhl, Social Credit, Jasper, Alta., said regarding the bill.

Ralph Maybank, Liberal, Winnipeg South Centre, said those who would reject the bill were aping Communist tactics in Russia.

"We're asked by Mr. Martin to be as foolish as the Communists. 'If we take the position we can't give them a charter because we don't like their philosophy, we make ourselves the laughing stock of the country.'"

NO SPREADING OUT

Thomas Vien, Liberal, Outremont, Que., said he was against communism and could not vote to incorporate a Communist organization. Manitoba could have the organization. He wasn't going to give it power to go elsewhere.

"If Manitoba likes it, let them legislate within their own boundaries. I'll fight tooth and nail against every Communist organization. This is God's country. This is a democratic country. This is a parliamentary country. We shouldn't give the Communist arms to upset the institutions that cost our forbears so much."

"Their philosophy may be right in 100 years," said J. J. Kinley, Liberal, Queen's Lunenburg.

"Wait till they take control and purge you," said Mr. Vien.

"There is prejudice because they don't wear dress suits and because some of them don't smell as good as we think they should," said Mr. Kinley.

"You shouldn't make an aspersion of that kind," chided Chairman William H. Moore, Liberal, Ontario County, Ont., when Mr. Kuhl said some people considered Social Crediters worse than Communists.

"You should attend some Liberal meetings in Saskatchewan," retorted Mr. Kuhl. The bill was defeated.

At a Price

IT IS BECOMING THE FASHION IN SOME quarters to point to Germany's method of shrinking the size of the jobless army of the Reich as one which might be tried in Canada. It is not necessary to suggest, of course, that this bright idea is the product of a small element which seems to have gone swastika-minded. But let them consider what competent foreign observers have to say about the Hitlerian procedure and then ask themselves whether they are ready to pay the price—a price which includes the following:

- Gambling boldly on the future.
- Complete renunciation of personal liberty and abandonment of belief in private property.
- Establishment of a vast government machinery for supervising the private life of every individual.
- Suppression of free speech, the free press and free public assembly.
- Introduction of conscription of every able-bodied male, for both labor and military service.
- Virtual conscription of capital.
- Surely not even the most ardent apostle of the regimented mind would feel inclined to swallow the foregoing "panacea" for what has grown into one of the world's knottiest problems. We venture to wager, incidentally, that Canada's system of doing things orderly and in accordance with the fundamentals of responsible and responsive government will still be going strong long after generations of Germans have tired of reading of the meteoric rise and fall of Adolf Hitler and his Nazi party.

Conservative Convention

FACING THE FACTS OF THE SITUATION squarely and honestly, a staunch journalistic supporter of the Conservative Party of Canada discusses the two main considerations with which delegates to next week's National Convention must deal. First, of course, is the selection of a new leader to succeed Mr. Bennett. Second—and our contemporary emphasizes this particularly—is the production of "a platform of policies." It admits quite candidly that "the Conservatives meet at a time when their fortunes are at a low ebb," implying that unsatisfactory leadership and lack of directional thought have brought about their unfortunate condition. With that in mind, it tells them they have "little left to lose," but "everything to gain."

In common with the Montreal Gazette, the morning paper on numerous occasions in the last 12 months has manifested editorial hostility to the leadership of Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, the general complaint obviously being that he failed to measure up to expectations during the term he occupied the important position of party chief. The Columnist confesses, moreover, that the Conservatives of Canada "have lacked well-defined federal policies, and the people, in voting for candidates of the party, have done so blindly, not well assured of what course candidates would pursue." Mr. Bennett's resignation of the leadership and the calling of the National Convention, of course, are the outcome of frequent manifestations of dissatisfaction by Conservative newspapers with such loyalties of party adherence as our morning contemporary, the Montreal Gazette, and other less influential journals of similar political persuasion.

Within the last few days, however, other elements closely connected—if not definitely associated—with the Conservative Party have coupled the demand for complete reform of the forces now "at a low ebb" with the suggestion that Mr. Bennett might be prevailed upon "to take up the torch of leadership again, and carry it forward along the path of national policy with as much confidence as he inspired in 1930." This is from the Ottawa Citizen, which adds that he "could still be the Shaftesbury of this 20th century in Canadian politics, even of the British Commonwealth, where the democratic family of nations has never been in greater need of dynamic leadership—particularly in measures of economic co-operation."

On the eve of the National Convention, therefore, there is still apparent a definite cleavage of view in the federal Conservative ranks—if reflections in the party's press may be taken as any indication. But from the standpoint of ultimate party fortunes this may be all to the good. The strength of Canadian Liberalism always has rested on the fundamental right of its disciples to pool divided thought, sort out the best of it and use it, producing a comprehensive whole to embrace all those principles for which their creed stands. How that policy has succeeded, how Canada has profited by its practical application, needs no emphasis here.

Nor is it for us to suggest that the Ottawa Citizen may have had its editorial tongue in its cheek when it tried to visualize Mr. Bennett robed in the mantle of a Shaftesbury. True, the seventh ear of the line refused to join the government of Sir Robert Peel but did publicly support the Conservatives. Yet the public record of the founder of the Ragged School Union is more conspicuous for work for factory reform, his application of personal knowledge of slum conditions to the improvement of the social status of the workingman of Britain, than for party. Somehow, therefore, we cannot picture the former Conservative Premier of Canada as "the Shaftesbury of this 20th century in Canadian politics." Next week's convention, however, may think differently.

Canada's Official War History

WAR VETERANS ARE NOT LIKELY TO find much new ground for controversy in Volume I of the official history of the Canadian forces in the Great War, published today, with a complete appendix filling a separate volume. It has taken the Department of Defence almost 20 years to produce this work. But it suffers from the weaknesses seemingly inseparable from all official documents. It steers clear of many things to which the unfettered historian would devote most attention.

Anyone who has attended reunions of First Division veterans knows, for instance, that a large number of the troops became so disgusted with the mud and mismanagement of Salisbury Plains that they simply staged a walk-out and took French leave to London. There is no mention of this in the official story, although it has been immortalized in song.

But to the military technician the volume should prove of great value. In the record of the second battle of Ypres the messages passing between various commands are reproduced to show how deadly is the result of inaccurate information, and how inaccurate information gushes forth in the stress and excitement of a real battle.

One thing that the book does show, mainly in the appendices, is that someone should take on the job of writing a real biography of Sir Sam Hughes—one of the most colorful characters who ever strode across the Canadian stage. The late Sir Sam's pigheadedness is adequately demonstrated in the controversy over the Ross rifle. But on other occasions he played an historic part on the right side. When Kitchener bluntly ordered Sir Sam to break up the whole Canadian contingent, so that the men could be scattered in small groups throughout the whole British army, the reply was instantaneous: "I'll be damned if I will." Within 24 hours Sir Sam, Sir Robert Borden and Mr. Lloyd George had forced the Army Council to reverse its decision.

Day's Sport for Bombers

ASSOCIATED PRESS DESCRIPTION OF what happened on the road between Castellon and Valencia as 15,000 homeless men, women and children fled before the Franco forces:

"Almost certain death lay along the main Castellon highway. Machine-gun raiders would appear suddenly and every moving object would halt as the terror-stricken refugees threw themselves to the ground under the rain of bullets.

"Scores of families brought tragic stories—of pausing hastily in their flight to scoop out a shallow grave for a relative or friend killed at their side by machine-gun bullets. Whole families were killed on the bomb-swept road between Castellon de la Plana and Valencia."

Apologists for Franco probably will be assuring us that terror-stricken refugees fleeing on the open road in search of safety are "military objectives" for aircraft.

HOW OLD ONTARIO SEES IT

From Owen Sound Sun-Times
Somewhat over a month ago several hundred unemployed men took possession of the Vancouver Post Office, the Art Gallery and the ground floor of one of the city's leading hotels. They announced that they intended to stay there until the government gave them either work or food. None of them went out to see whether he could find a job; they were satisfied to wait.

The men in the hotel were bought off by a cash donation and we heard no more from them. The others continued to wait; and at last something came to them. But it was not work; it was not food; it was a squad of husky police who proceeded to rout them out of their quarters.

This forcible eviction was not a pleasant job; but there was nothing else to be done. The men were there in defiance of all law; the only wonder is that they were not thrown out long before they were.

One does not like to associate a policeman's club and tear gas bombs with men who are out of work; but these men were not only out of work but were making no effort to find any. They could not expect any work—even odd jobs—to come to them while they were sitting in a post office or an art gallery.

The announced objection of this sit-down strike was to bring attention to the plight of the unemployed. It was a spectacular method; but it was hardly one to bring results. The mere fact that a man is unemployed does not entitle him to any greater rights or privileges than anyone else enjoys. These sit-downers made two bad moves—they put themselves on the wrong side of the law by taking forcible possession of public buildings and they placed themselves in a position where they were far less likely to get work than if they had gone out and hustled for it. Sitting down and waiting never gets anyone anywhere. The old saying should be revised to read, "All things come to him who waits and if he hustles while he is waiting."

AGED SPINSTER

A THRILLING ARTICLE in this paper the other night revealed that Ursus Kermode had been imprisoned in Beacon Hill Park for 14 years and that she appeared happy. Many gallant and aged spinsters of the human species keep up a brave front, too, but really they aren't happy, you know; and out of a long observation of spinsterhood, male and female, my expert opinion still is that the little white bear has missed quite a lot in life for which a few peanuts, crackers and candies thrown to her by tourists are not a complete compensation.

However, the bright spot in the article on Ursus Kermode, the final defence for keeping her locked forever in a state of celibacy, is this: "A great deal of pity has been showered upon Ursus because of her isolation from members of her family. The adults of the species, however, are never seen traveling together. A female with her cubs and possibly a cub of the year before, travel together, but never two adults."

This is a new theory of biology which should interest the scientists of the world. Indeed, I think it will baffle them entirely. How, under these circumstances there ever was a baby Ursus to be imprisoned in our park is a mystery so far-unexplained. But if the Kermode family really is opposed to matrimony on grounds of principle and doesn't believe in love, what right have we to interfere? Perhaps, after all, Ursus is a willing spinster. If so, she is the only one I have ever heard of.

CHINAMAN'S VIEW

SPEAKING OF URUSUS, I wrote a wild protest the other day against the destruction of our Beacon Hill ducks by seagulls. At once, one of the foremost medical men of Victoria, waxing philosophical, wrote me to say that my interest in dumb animals had reminded him of a cogent passage from the work of that great Chinese sage, Lin Yutang. The passage, which seems to concern bears, ducks and spinsters, ran as follows:

"I always suspect the confirmed bachelor or unmarried woman who remains so by choice of being an ineffectual intellectual, too much engrossed with his or her own external achievements, believing that he or she can, as a human being, find happiness in an effective substitute for the home life, or find an intellectual, artistic or professional interest which is deeply satisfying."

"I deny this. This spectacle of individualism, unmarried and childless, trying to find a substitute for a full and satisfying life in 'careers' and personal achievements and preventing cruelty to animals has struck me always as somewhat foolish and comical. It is psychologically symptomatic in the case of old maid ladies trying to sue a circus manager for cruelty to tigers because their suspicion has been aroused by whipmarks on the animals' backs. Their protests seem to come out of a misplaced maternal instinct, applied to a wrong species, as if true tigers ever thought anything of a little whipping. These women are vaguely groping for a place in life and trying very hard to make it sound convincing to themselves and to others."

But the joke is on the eminent local doctor who sent this extract to me in a mood of superior sarcasm. Not an old maid, but a virile young fellow doctor (married and a proud father) asked me to rush to the defence of the ducks, and I rushed.

RETURN OF HAM

THEY HAVE A NEW rage in the United States. They are reviving old movies, and, without cost to the producers, they are packing the yokels in. Most popular revival are the films of Rudolph Valentino, which we used to see in our youth.

The women still love the swarthy young ogler, dead these 12 years. But it is seen now that he was a ham actor who makes primitive fellows like Mr. Gable appear like Irvings by contrast. Some magazine pictures of Valentino's famous picture, "The Sheik" (which made all America hunger for the good clean desert, with some beautiful dancing girls thrown in), show what horrors we used to look at on the screen and like them.

Valentino, laughing hideously at his beautiful blonde prisoner (Came the Dawn on the Burning Sands and with it Love) is about as nasty a sight as you would likely find anywhere in Arabia. It is impossible to believe that we used to look at these pictures, that the women of America loved Valentino as they never loved their husbands, that when he died there was more sorrow over him than over Lincoln.

It is more melancholy to think that 10 years from now we shall look back on Mr. Gable and Mr. Cooper and Mr. Colman and roar with laughter, but there will be a certain sadness in it, for we shall know that we were happier in the old days of 1938 in our innocence. It is all right to laugh at Valentino. We shall soon look as silly to our children as he does, and the women will never weep over us as they did over him, and no one will revive us and pay money to see us after we are dead.

WAR VETERANS' ALLOWANCES

From Toronto Star
The act as amended this year provides for allowance to veterans who have attained the age of 60 years or to veterans of any age who because of disabilities is permanently unemployable, and also to veterans who while unable to qualify under either of the above classes, having served in a theatre of actual war, is, in the opinion of the board, incapable and unlikely to become capable of maintaining himself because of economic handicaps combined with physical or mental disability or insufficiency. There are other conditions which you may learn by applying to War Pensions Department, or to Canadian Legion office.

ASTONISHING

To the Editor: The spectacle presented by the unemployed occupying the Post Office, Vancouver, was one of the most damning examples of official ineptitude I have ever seen.

Here, in Victoria recently, I was passing by the City Police Station, and was astonished at seeing what looked like a dress rehearsal of masquerading city constables. Subsequent inquiries elicited the fact that these callow policemen were "specials" enlisted to cope with any likely outbreak on the part of the unemployed now converging on this city.

Considering the number of seasoned, disciplined, unemployed War Veterans residing here, it is going in the face of all precedent to employ a bunch of youngsters for a job which may call for all the tact, tolerance and forbearance that can come only with years of discretion and first-hand contact with bloody strife.

ON RETIRED COLONELS

To the Editor:—In a letter from a self-styled "retired colonel" we learn that it is a disgrace to be "spoon fed" by a "paternal government." It may be perhaps permissible to state that there is more than one way of being "spoon fed."

It, for instance, may not have occurred to retired colonels that while they are in the army they receive a wage and when the army has no further use for their services they become members of the unemployed. They may retire on "half pay" or otherwise; but which ever way it may be, so long as they receive, "without work" a means of subsistence, they are, to all intents and purposes, being "spoon fed."

Perhaps our colonels on the retired list will feel disposed to retaliate by saying that they have faithfully served their king and country, and no one is inclined to doubt it. But what of it? The fact of accepting a means of subsistence from a government indicates, if not the thought, at least the fact of being "spoon fed," whether army officials or Canadian youth.

If, of course we are of opinion that circumstances alter cases, and conclude that a retired colonel is of more importance than, shall we say, a youth who sees no reason why he should not live, then retired colonels win the day. But we do not. Whatever may be our status in life under any form of social relationship, we feel that if a colonel who is on the retired list is permitted to be "spoon fed," then it is sound logic to assume that young men who wish to work, but owing to the contradictions of our present mode of social relations, cannot, should receive quite as much from the spoon as the colonel.

In fairness to the judgment of "retired colonel," we must state that so-called "leaders of working-class movements" are in the main frauds. They are, in common parlance, "meal ticket artists." The movement is full of them. So is the army. They are a blot on creation; but they exist. So we must expose them whenever the occasion arises. But apart from this parasitic element in the labor movement, we cannot see where "retired colonels" are to be given the privilege of damning young men of this or any country because they do not happen to be "retired colonels." If young men are unemployed it is logical to analyze the cause; not sneer at the sufferers of its effect.

C. C. HARRISON, 723 Yates Street.

STEADY WORK JOBLESS AIM

Want Permanent Employment, Not Trouble, Leaders Tell 2,000 Victorians

The 500 unemployed single men who are in Victoria today have come with peaceful intentions to earnestly petition the provincial government for a program of work and wages which will serve to provide permanent employment and if there is any violence it will not be started by them, speakers on behalf of the men told an audience of 2,000 persons in Beacon Hill Park last night.

Speaking from the park bandstand over a public address system, nine speakers appealed for assistance for the men in billeting them here and reviewed the case which they are presenting to the provincial authorities for work.

Principal speakers were Colin Cameron, C.C.F. member for Comox, and R. W. Campbell, publicity chairman of the Relief Project Workers' Union.

On arrival the 500 men paraded to the grounds singing their theme song, "Hold the Fort." At the close of the meeting, in addition to their song, they gave three cheers for the splendid way in which they had been treated in Victoria. A collection was taken during the evening.

Colin Cameron challenged the government to explain to the people why there were rumors rife about extensive reinforcements being taken on to the Provincial Police force and for what purpose this was being done. He suggested the solution to the men's problem lay not in any temporary program of public works but in the creation of a production centre to absorb the men who could not be absorbed in private industry. Such institutions would come eventually, Mr. Cameron predicted, and would provide the only proper solution to the needs of the single men. Whether these institutions would result from chaotic upheaval, or peaceful understanding rested with the authorities of the province, he said.

Mr. Campbell aimed his remarks particularly at the Young Citizens' League which, he said, had been writing letters to the newspapers and asking pertinent questions. "If the Young Citizens' League had harrowed the ground these boys have harrowed they wouldn't be behind them with any reservations but would extend them their fullest support," he said.

The position of the single men, he said, was that they had lost their domicile through eight years wandering across Canada in earnest search for work. "We are homeless at home," he said, "and as Canadian as anyone in this audience tonight." The men were purely pursuing their rights of liberty and happiness as citizens of Canada.

An appeal to the women to come forward with offers to assist the men was voiced by Mrs. E. Matheson, chairman of the Women's Emergency Committee. Ernest Cumber, executive member of the Relief Project Workers' Union, said the union was not anxious to fulfill its promise to send 1,500 men here unless the government would not try to solve the situation properly. He charged the Financial News with slanderous attacks on the single men, but said "in our fight for our rights as citizens we have become impervious to such attacks."

Norman Coe, of the Victoria Trades and Labor Council; A. E. Atkinson of the United Mine Workers of America; and F. Hollins of the Victoria Youth Council all pledged the support of their respective organizations to the petition of the single men. Mr. Coe said organized labor here was solidly behind the men and charged the government should assist them whether they were transients or not. "If war broke out tomorrow they wouldn't worry whether or not you were a transient," he said.

Fred Duncan, Vancouver, executive member of the R.P.W.U., was chairman, and T. M. Nixon, Victoria, also spoke, challenging Premier Pattullo to make public his plans for the men.

Head Returned By Beaux-Arts

Brian Burdon-Murphy Re-elected President; Successful Year Reported

Brian Burdon-Murphy was re-elected by acclamation to the presidency of the Victoria Beaux-Arts Society at its annual meeting in the Crystal Garden last night.

Other officers elected were: Vice-president, Jack Rattan; secretary, Connie Hobbs; treasurer, Waldo Skillings; membership chairman, Honor Benson; promotion manager, Cedric Lefevre; social convener, Dallas Homer-Dixon, and production convener, Hope Denbigh.

In his presidential report Mr. Burdon-Murphy said a new policy had been adopted during the last year with the object of raising the standard of acting and had been amply justified by the Beaux-Arts winning the Bessborough Trophy, championship of the Dominion Drama Festival.

Under the new policy classes in acting technique had been conducted by Hector Cant of the Cornish School, Seattle, and in speech and make-up by Mrs. Barbara West, Vancouver, who also directed the society's second entry in the Dominion Drama Festival, "Twelfth Night."

Mr. Burdon-Murphy paid tribute to the work of Wilbur Sparrow, who directed the trophy-winning performance of Noel Coward's "Hands Across the Sea."

Other activities of the year which the president reported included the presentation of two plays by local authors before Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. E. W. Hamber at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Spencer; two tea dances, a telephone bridge and the annual Snow Ball and May-fair Ball.

The treasurer's report given by Denis Humphreys showed receipts and expenditures of $2,600 during the year.

A report on the progress of the campaign for Doreen McGregor, the society's candidate in the Miss Victoria contest, was given by Mr. Lefevre. Miss Denbigh gave a detailed report on the dramatic work of the society.

NEW EXCLUSIVE SOLVENT in Esso and 3-Star

dissolves gum fights carbon

SO GOOD

it is protected by Can. Patent No. 357976

Claims for gasoline improvements have been many and varied. But here is an improvement that has been granted a patent by the Canadian Government. That means definite recognition that the product has new, useful and improved characteristics.

A new solvent is now being added to Esso and 3-Star gasolines which dissolves gum and checks carbon formation that robs your engine of power. Instead of baking into hard, sticky deposits in your engine, these trouble-forming elements are blown out through the exhaust.

This solvent should not be confused with lubricating oils sometimes added to gasolines. Ample lubrication is provided by Imperial lubricants. The sole purpose of this exclusive solvent is to check gum and carbon accumulation in the engine.

No one can duplicate the new, patented formula of Esso and 3-Star. No other gasoline can duplicate the performance of Esso and 3-Star. Decide now to have a cleaner, livelier engine.

*Next time you need gasoline,

YOU HAVE TWO CHOICES OF PERFORMANCE

Esso The highest quality motor fuel Imperial Oil has ever made, containing a sufficient amount of tetraethyl lead to eliminate "knock" and "ping" and to give smooth power and solvent to keep your engine free of gum and carbon.

3-STAR This famous gasoline has long been recognized by motorists as a regular-priced gasoline of exceptional quality. Now it contains this new, exclusive gum-absorbing solvent which means more power, a cleaner engine than ever before.

Bright Ideas Blossom As M.P.'s Begin to Pack Up.

By NORMAN M. MACLEOD
OTTAWA.

ONE OF THE surest signs each year that the sands of another parliamentary session have practically run out is the sudden sprouting in legislative circles of a healthy crop of really first-class ideas.

In the language of a well-known phrase, the Statesmen "do it every time." They spend long, hectic weeks devising new and sometimes startling proposals for spending the people's money and carelessly trying to sugar-coat the taxation pills necessary to finance their extravagant orgy. Then a reaction sets in and they begin to talk seriously in terms of economy and efficiency. But by that time the boys are packing their bags and on the way to the train. They leave with the virtuous thought that there is always another year in which they can carry out their good intentions.

The present session is no exception to the general rule. During the past week, the brief budget debate of this year has been remarkable for the counsels of prudence and economy in public financial affairs which the M.P.'s on both sides of the chamber preached. There was a definite reaction against costly royal commissions and a gratifying admission from no less a cabinet luminary than Hon. J. G. Gardiner that possibly the government had been inclined to resort to this form of government too much.

THEN THERE WAS a well-reasoned and strongly-argued proposal for a curtailment in the size—and, consequently, the expense—of the House of Commons. This latter inspiration of authentic genius came from J. H. Harris, Conservative member for Danforth, who ranks in the opinion of Parliament Hill as perhaps the ablest businessman legislator in the Commons Chamber. The suggestion of Mr. Harris was that a chamber of 100 members, approximately one member to every 100,000 of the population, should be adequate to the spending needs, quite apart from the legislative requirements, of the Dominion.

The suggestion, instead of falling on desert air, appears to have found fertile soil. At any rate, the standing committee of the Commons on Elections has been considering it, and with a certain show of favor. The contrast afforded by the United Kingdom, where 615 members look after the needs of 47,000,000 electors, as against 245 in Canada for 11,000,000 electors, has been emphasized. When the point was raised that the population of the United Kingdom was concentrated and not scattered as is the case in Canada, the example afforded by Australia was cited. In the Commonwealth 74 members supply the legislation for a population of 6,500,000.

BUT, TO QUOTE another colloquialism, all this discussion, with its undoubted music for the taxpayers' ears, "sounds great, but it don't mean anything." The M.P.'s, even while they talk in this melodious strain, are packing their bags and wondering how some of the pictures which the government supplies in their offices would look on the walls back home. If they feel the same way about this economy and efficiency business when they come back next year, they will do something about it. But they won't. The chief idea with which 80 per cent of the government M.P.'s arrive on Parliament Hill each year is that it is the function of the estimates for the session to ensure their reelection at the public expense.

It is an old aphorism which is none the less true that none of the federal statesmen would run their own private business as they do the affairs of the country. But then, in their own private business, they would be looking for profits—not for votes.

Government scientists in Egypt have been doing research for two years for the purpose of raising standards of beeswax.

Italy expects to get from Ethiopian mines 440 pounds of platinum per year, "this amount being sufficient to supply Italian requirements."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of fluid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sick and the world looks lousy.

A marvelous movement down the bowels gets at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes these good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of a catalyst but have no caustic or mercurial taint. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Don't let anyone refuse anything else. See.

Five Meals a Day

MONTREAL.

FIVE MEALS A DAY is the best way in which men and women can maintain their efficiency as workers—three meals a day are pernicious, but not so unhealthy as missing the morning meal or the mid-day meal.

The reason for this was explained by Dr. C. C. Birchard, chief medical officer of the Sun Life Assurance Company, Montreal, in an address to the delegates of the National Office Management Association.

Energy is supplied to the human body through carbohydrates, and efficiency is predicated on the amount of blood sugar there is in the system. A person eating breakfast at 7 o'clock is most efficient an hour or so afterwards—then his supply of sugar in the blood begins to go down and his efficiency with it, reaching its lowest point at mid-day.

Following the mid-day meal the sugar content of the blood again rises, and with it efficiency for an hour or so, and then it decreases as the supply of sugar is used up, until in the late afternoon energy is at its lowest ebb.

Having a light meal at 11 o'clock, consisting of food that contains starches, such as a couple of slices of bread and butter, and having afternoon tea at 4 o'clock was strongly recommended for office employees if they desired to retain their efficiency at a normal level, these being in addition to the three meals which most people eat nowadays.

If the body was not supplied with carbohydrates it began burning up the fats of the body, and when this happened a man worked less advantageously.

With five meals a day there was not so much need of stimulant, and the efficiency level was maintained more easily. Employees who slipped out for a cup of tea in mid-morning or late afternoon were not lead-swingers or lazy, they were simply responding to the demand of the body for more energy-producing sugar, and in offices where a high standard of efficiency was desired, there was preeminently a need for facilities by which they could obtain a small meal of carbohydrates without subterfuge.

Paris Parade

By PETER STURBERG

PARIS.

"Everyone at the Mur des Fédérés," Le Populaire declared in a front-page advertisement, "Honor the Martyrs of the Commune." L'Humanité screamed in headlines, "Here's your chance to see a real parade," an English journalist said.

At 1 o'clock I was at the gate of the great cemetery of Pere Lachaise. In a few minutes the parade was moving. Led by seven old men, the last of the Paris Commune of 1871, the march started up through the city of the dead, which is really like a city with its family vaults crammed close together.

Soon the shady road through the graveyard was a living mass of people. Past the wall where the Communards were shot down they marched, laying their wreaths down until it became a wall of flowers. Past the stand in which sat the leaders of the Popular Front, they shouted their slogans. Past the graves of Paul Vaillant Couturier and Henri Barbusse, heroes of the Popular Front, they saluted with clenched fists.

I stood opposite the graves of Vaillant Couturier and Barbusse and watched the thousands march by with their fists clenched. Parents carrying little children put their fists up in the air. Behind the simple white and red marble tombs were huge pictures of the two men and all around were standardbearers with red flags.

At the stand, the bursts of shouting became more distinct. "Ouvrez les Frontiers" I heard over and over again, until it became a chant. Les Frontiers referred to the Spanish frontiers. There were also many other slogans.

On the right of the stand sat the veterans of the Commune, giving shaky clenched-fist salutes to the cheering thousands. One old fellow found it rather tiring to salute for hours, so he rested his arm on the railing of the stand.

In the centre of the stand were Cachin, Thorez and Duclos, the triumvirate of French Communism. Cachin looked like a venerable old colonel, Thorez could double for Dempsey or Tunney, while Duclos was what you would mark down as a typical French bourgeois. When the young Communists paraded by and continuously howled "Thorez au Pouvoir," "Thorez to Power," I saw the tough general secretary of the French Communist Party, the Stalin of France, blush and grin.

At 4.30 my friend had to leave. We started to push our way down Pere Lachaise past more thousands with standards and banners coming up. Gusts of the "Internationale" burst on us.

At last we reached the gate, but the road was choked with people and there were more red flags as

Latest Inventions

WASHINGTON—Inventors reaped 774 patents from the U.S. Patent Office this week to protect that many inventions. Among them were several selected by Science Service for the unusual approach they displayed towards the solution of new and old problems.

A flexible profile figure which shows what happens to various internal organs when posture is incorrect, and incidentally correct posture also, was patented by Lester H. Loeffel and Irving R. Versoy of New Haven, Conn. Protected by patent No. 2,118,092, the invention is designed to aid garment makers.

Doctors and nurses may readily know if their instruments have been properly sterilized by watching a special indicator, placed in the sterilizer with the instruments, change color, according to patent No. 2,118,144, granted to Phoebe Berman and Albert L. Chaney of Los Angeles.

Chemicals with which the indicator is impregnated change color when the proper sterilizing temperature and pressure have been reached.

William K. Beyer of Chicago received patent No. 2,118,145 for a combination infra-red or ultra-violet lamp. The lamp may be used to generate either type of radiation.

Beatty Formula Sharing Explained

By NORMAN M. MacLEOD
OTTAWA.

SIR EDWARD BEATTY'S formula for railway unification laid down the two principles that under unification each road should receive the net earnings which past experience indicated that it would have enjoyed operating as an independent institution, and that the economies made available by unification should be shared on an equitable basis, with the expectation that the C.N.R. should receive at least half.

The difficulty to which Rt. Hon. Raoul Dandurand directed attention in the Senate Committee—lies largely in the phrase "past experience" is to supply the criterion of the net earnings to which each road would be entitled under a unified basis of operation?

Some of the statesmen, in their search for truth, have chosen the record of the two roads over the past 10 years as a fair test period to adopt. Then, instead of estimating the Beatty economies of $73,500,000 per year, they have taken the C.N.R. figure of a possible $56,000,000 saving.

TESTED on this basis, the Beatty formula would work out in practice somewhat as follows:

Over the past 10 years the average annual rail earnings of the C.P.R., excluding non-rail subsidiaries, has been $30,933,084, while of the C.N.R. it has been $16,479,300.

Taking the year 1930 as a reasonably normal one for basis of comparison, the combined net earnings of the two systems were $64,759,595, to which would have to be added the estimated unification economies of $56,000,000. The income fund to be divided between the two roads would therefore total $120,759,595.

From this fund would have to be deducted first the "past experience" revenue of the C.P.R. amounting to $30,933,084 and the past experience revenue of the C.N.R. amounting to $16,479,300.

This would leave a fund of $73,347,211 available for further division between the two roads in accordance with Sir Edward Beatty's expectation that "at least half" should go to the C.N.R.

On the basis of a 50-50 apportionment, the C.P.R. and the C.N.R. would each receive $36,673,605.50.

In other words the C.N.R. would receive a total revenue for the year of $16,479,300 plus $36,673,605—a total of $53,152,905.

At the present time the Canadian National Railway charges for interest amount annually to $53,270,417. If unification worked out in accordance with the foregoing figures, the government-owned road would have $53,152,905 to contribute towards meeting them.

In other words, the C.N.R. would come just $117,511 short of meeting its interest charges to the public and the treasury of the country would be correspondingly relieved.

MANY of the federal legislators are sincerely doubtful of the possibility of sitting down and settling the railway problem of the country simply by pencil and paper. Unification is a project so vast it is feared it would present aspects in practice which could not possibly be foreseen in any advance theoretical analysis of the project. The fear is that the economies which appear so feasible on paper would not be realized under the altered traffic and operating conditions in which unification would result.

Against the skepticism of the legislators—or at least of a certain group of them—there is the opinion of the experienced railroaders of the C.P.R. They are all reputable and even highly distinguished men in their profession, and they have been staking their reputations upon the soundness of their evidence before the Senate Committee.

The problem is admitted in all circles on Parliament Hill to be formidable enough to justify the M.P.s and Senators being a trifle intimidated by it. There is little to suggest that they will recover their powers of resolution in time for action at the present session.

THE GORGE CONDEMNED

To the Editor:—The city authorities of Victoria have issued notices that "The Gorge waters are unfit for swimming."

It is clearly evident to those who have watched this beautiful asset to the various municipalities gradually becoming unfit and not safe for bathing that this notice is the correct one.

Who is to blame? With this I am not interested so far. But the question at issue is "Is there a remedy?" Must we lose a real asset so long valued by grown-ups, children and visitors?

What of the loss to property owners around this large area of waterfrontage, especially to the public spirit of the owner of Craigflower Park, who, having spent an enormous sum in developing a "mud flat" into a beautiful, picturesque spot, already visited by scores of tourists?

UNUSUAL JOBS—

Lights Parliament Buildings

He has charge of the electric lights that have made British Columbia's Legislative Buildings famous to tourists from all points of the world. Of course this is only one of the things he does, for as the building electrician he has charge of all electrical matters.

Mr. Chitty babies the lights like children. Every time they are to be turned on he makes sure that they are all ready to do their duty. Usually this is done by switching them on in the afternoon. If a few are burned out they are replaced.

If the unit globe is on the face of the buildings a man is lowered down in a bosun's chair. If it is on the main dome he ties himself in a rope sling and clammers down the steep slope.

"We get little or no breakage of the lamps," said Mr. Chitty. "It's usually just a case of old age, although some of them have been in for 10 years."

There are 3,000 lights strung round the building. They are special carbon bulbs of only two candle power, which accounts for the soft yellow glow when the buildings are lit. Three big switches in the bowels of the vaults control the whole 3,000.

What of the loss to the building trade and the manufacturers' loss of revenue?

What of the general health of the surrounding districts and the main artery along which must pass all our visitors going up island?

What of the loss of this large area of water that should be stocked with fish and covered with boats? And what of the loss of revenue that could be increased by holding our tourists and visitors? Who is to blame?

In 1920 Victoria tried to remedy this trespass upon the waters of the Gorge by pollution, spending a large amount of money in a scheme. Because Saanich also was trespassing, opportunity was given Saanich (see By-law No. 2096, May, 1920) to do their part, and although an agreement (a gentleman's agreement it was called) was arrived at that would rid the top part of its worst evil, 1938 has come and this trespass still exists.

spilt milk. Now is the time to get together. I have submitted a solution upon which I have spent some time. After submitting this to Dr. Young of the B.C. Board of Health, who was called in by the city and municipalities, his statement is as follows:

"With reference to the pollution of the Gorge Waters and Inner Harbor as it exists today, it is unsanitary and a common sewer of all intents and purposes, and of necessity must be condemned, that is if nothing is done to remedy existing evils. My suggestion which, when applied, will bring about a movement of the Gorge waters that will twice a day renew the waters and carry away all sewage matter is to be desired. Mr. John Day's "Sanitary Engineer" proposal would appear to offer a practical solution, and if so would have the support of the Provincial Board of Health."

What of the cost? The government wants something to tide over unemployment. Eighty-five per cent would go in labor, which would return all that may be spent a thousand fold.

If I am given the proper support the cost will be far from the many exaggerated amounts so often mentioned.

It is only by united effort this can be done.

JOHN DAY,
Sanitary Engineer.

Bernard Shaw Still Vegetarian

LONDON (AP)—George Bernard Shaw yesterday indignantly denied he had broken a half-century vegetarian rule as a cure for the anaemia from which he is suffering.

"It's a blazing lie," roared Shaw. He admitted he had "a bit of a breakup" through overwork.

"She'll Always Be YOUNG!"

Medical testimony (from the Pharmacological Institute of the University of Berne):—"The effects after taking Phyllosan are: a sensation of general well-being, disappearance of depression and of the feeling of insurmountable fatigue... The subject, so to speak, experiences a new lease on life... Phyllosan activates all the physical and vital forces."

When men wish to express their admiration for the charm of a woman past forty, they can say nothing so apt as "She'll always be young!" For, truly, youthful vitality is the essence of all feminine charm. Have you ever seen a charming woman without it?

Ready energy, buoyant good spirits, the warmth that springs from overbrimming, joyous vitality... these, taken together, are feminine charm. And if vitality is retained, then charm is retained, even with the passing of years. For the charm that flows from vitality is actually enriched by the understanding and poise that comes with maturity.

The secret of charm in women past 35 or 40 lies in knowing how to maintain vitality.

And it can be done. The experience of thousands of women shows conclusively that, through the simple use of PHYLLOSAN, the unnecessary devitalization of premature middle-age may be avoided.

Who is to blame? What is the use of raising this question now? We are all to blame, and the citizens and public are the biggest culprits. Can it be remedied? Surely it can, and what is now a sewer and a dangerous menace can be turned into a beauty spot. We can have a miniature lake from Harriet Road to the Portage Inlet, bathing and fishing, boating, regattas.

A small Venice, property values increased, homes extended all around the inlet, work for builders and a finished million-dollar asset (so George Warren, our energetic commissioner, said when I explained the remedy).

It is not too late to cry over

PHYLLOSAN TABLETS help enrich your blood... strengthen your nerves... build up your reserves of vital power. Recommended by many physicians, especially to those past 40.

And the beneficial effects are lasting.

Married at Burnaby Lake

Mr. Thomas W. Hall, Former Victorian, Weds Miss K. Verner

The garden of "Garranard," the home of the bride's parents, overlooking Deer Lake, Burnaby Lake, B.C., was the setting chosen for the lovely wedding which took place at 6 o'clock Friday, June 24, of Kathleen Abercrombie, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Verner to Thomas Watson Hall, second son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Hall of Victoria.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. B. Willan, padre of the New Westminster Regiment, of which the groom is an officer, before an altar placed on a carpet of ferns and surrounded by a profusion of summer flowers. The bride was given in marriage by her father, and made a charming picture as she entered the garden through an aisle formed of white ribbon held by the Misses Jean and Margaretta Verner, sisters of the bride. Her gown was of white Korean silk worn over white figured taffeta. Her short length tulle veil fell from a heart-shaped head dress of tulle banded by rose point lace and was held in place with pearl pins, heirlooms from the bride's grandmother. She carried a sheaf bouquet of gladioli, stocks and delphinium.

Miss Rosalie Moore as bridesmaid wore a gown of white chiffon, with bands of brightly colored chiffon forming the hemline and sash. Her bouquet was of gladioli, peonies and delphinium. Miss Jean and Miss Margaretta Verner were gown alike in peach and Nile green silk marquisette over taffeta of a deeper tone, and they carried colonial bouquets of rose buds and sweet peas.

The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. John Hall of Victoria.

A reception was held on the lawn, where the bride's table was presided over by Mrs. T. Verner and Mrs. John Robinson. Mrs. Thomas Hall of Victoria and Mrs. E. H. Moore cut the loaves. To receive the guests, Mrs. Verner chose figured chiffon over mauve taffeta, while Mrs. Hall, the bridegroom's mother, chose navy georgette with matching navy hat.

For her wedding trip the bride donned a grey worsted suit with topcoat of Scotch tweed in soft shades of blue, rose and grey, her hat was of powder blue felt, and she wore a corsage of gladioli and white carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Hall will make their home at New Westminster, where the bridegroom is attached to the office staff at the penitentiary.

Mothers Off To Sunshine Camp

First Party Leaves For Holiday: Formal Opening Soon

An eager crowd of 48 mothers and children left Victoria yesterday afternoon for Saseenos, the first party destined for a holiday at the Fred Landsberg Sunshine Camp.

Accompanied from the Vancouver Island Coach Lines depot by Miss Constance Brown, the camp supervisor, the 23 mothers and 25 children received a warm welcome from the staff who will look after their wellbeing for the next two weeks, including Miss Foxhall, the camp mother; Miss Anne Goshko, the camp nurse, who is not only supervising the health of everyone in camp, but also giving all manner of useful practical talks on health, diet, etc.; Miss Karen Beyer, the recreation leader, and her two assistants, Miss Josephine Habard and Miss Sheila Swift, who are giving full-time attention to the children so as to relieve the mothers and let them enjoy the holiday to the full; and Miss Edgar, the camp cook.

CAMP ROUTINE

After an exciting afternoon in the camp grounds, the children were ready for bed at sundown, while their mothers and other older women with the party gathered in the big recreation hall for a comfortable chat.

One of the first items in the camp routine is the weighing and measuring of every child, so that a day-by-day improvement in the child's general condition can be worked for by means of diet, proper exercise, rest and sleep. The day commences early, breakfast being served between 7 and 8 for the benefit of the children who invariably waken early, eager to miss nothing of the long hours of fun at this delightful spot. It is hoped that friends of the camp will, from time to time, provide little entertainments to give variety to the life.

COMMUNITY CHEST

The camp this year is financed by the Community Chest, being sponsored by the Friendly Help Welfare Society. But the committee is most anxious that all who are interested in the work will make an effort to visit the camp during the summer. The formal opening will take place next Wednesday at 3:30 p.m., when all friends will be welcomed. The camp will receive further parties at two-week intervals, up to September 1.

Brown in Vancouver for a few days before coming over at the end of the week to visit her son and daughter-in-law, Paymaster-Lieutenant and Mrs. Rupert Wright of Esquimalt. Later she will visit in the interior of the province before returning to her home in England.

Mrs. Richard Dubois Phillips and Mrs. Meredith McFarlane, who with their husbands left Victoria recently to make their home in Vancouver, were the guests of honor when their mother, Mrs. Edward Carter, Cedar Crescent, Vancouver, entertained a large number of guests at her home yesterday. Mrs. Freer Brock assisted Mrs. Carter throughout the afternoon, and presiding at the table were Mrs. Bertram Dubois Phillips, Mrs. A. E. Jukes, Mrs. W. Percival Kirkpatrick and Mrs. C. W. The invited guests were: Miss Anne Warburton, Mesdames G. Fox, V. Robley, J. Tindell, E. Warburton, H. Warburton, L. M. Vye, W. Sharp, W. Brakes and A. VOWLES—PHILPOTT

At St. John's Church on Saturday evening Rev. Canon F. A. P. Chadwick united in marriage Lydia Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Philpott of Crease Avenue, Saanich, and Mr. Arthur Vowles, second son of Mr. and Mrs. William Vowles of McKenzie Avenue, Mr. G. Jennings Burnett, church organist, played the wedding music, and during the signing of the register played "Moonlight and Roses."

The bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. Robert Galt, wore a wedding gown of white satin, with lace insets, and a floor-length veil of white silk net, caught at the nape of the neck with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white rosebuds and sweet peas.

There were two attendants, Mrs. Harold Neff, the matron of honor, wearing a pretty frock of blue net over taffeta, with matching hat and gloves, and carrying a bouquet of pink carnations, and Miss Emily Philpott, the bride's sister, as bridesmaid in a frock of rose taffeta, with rose veil and gloves and carrying rose-colored carnations. Mr. James Vowles, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsmen, and the ushers were Mr. Arthur Philpott and Mr. Harold Neff.

After the ceremony, a largely-attended reception was held in the Alex Hall, Burnside Road, which was effectively decorated with summer flowers. The four-tier wedding cake centred the prettily-decorated supper table. During the reception music was rendered by an instrumental trio, with Miss Eva Vowles at the piano, and Miss Maria Vowles and Mr. B. Howard, violins. Later Mr. and Mrs. Vowles left for a honeymoon up-land and will make their home in Victoria on their return.

T.B. Veterans Will Hold Tag Day
Make Appeal For Taggers To Assist Saturday

The Tuberculous Veterans' branch of the Canadian Legion will make their annual appeal to the public through the medium of a tag day on Saturday afternoon.

These men, all suffering from this dire malady contracted during their overseas service in the Great War, maintain their own clubhouse at 812 Blanshard Street, with the assistance of the women's auxiliary, and carry on a quiet but effective work in assisting comrades and families in need.

As they are entirely dependent on voluntary contributions and their own efforts to help carry on this necessary work, they are hoping that the public will meet their appeal with customary generosity.

As many of the members are physically unfit to stand for hours tagging, and the auxiliary is such a small group, the veterans are appealing to sympathizers to assist with tagging. Offers would be gratefully received by F. V. Banks, the secretary, E.8151, or by Mrs. D. W. Burnett, president of the auxiliary, phone E. 0079.

The Women's Auxiliary to the Sooke branch of the Canadian Legion will hold a garden party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Thorner Wednesday afternoon.

An open meeting for all returned men of the district will be held in the Sooke Community Hall on Thursday evening under the auspices of the Sooke branch of the Canadian Legion. Robert Macneil of Vancouver will speak.

At Christ Church Cathedral on Monday at high noon, Rev. A. E. Hendy officiated at the christening of the baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Bolderston of Chemainus. The baby, who wore a dainty frock of white crepe-de-chine, befrilled and inset with net, received the names Shirley Diane. The godparents were her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. George Bowden. After the service the parents and a few intimate friends repaired to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bowden on Southgate Street for luncheon. The table was centred with a silver-encrusted, crystal bowl filled with pink morning pride and white candytuft, the hand-some christening cake occupying a prominent place. The occasion also coincided with the third wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Bolderston, to whom felicitations were extended on the doubly happy occasion.

Complimentary to Miss Adele Mogdan, formerly of Victoria, whose marriage to Mr. Heine took place Saturday evening, June 25, in Edmonton, Alberta, a linen shower was held at the home of Mrs. Edel, 1134 Caledonia Avenue, Victoria, the same evening. A color scheme of pink and white centred with a cut-glass basket of pink roses and vases of pink carnations on either side. Many beautiful gifts were presented in a prettily-decorated basket, including a beautiful cream-colored tablecloth with a yellow border and four serviettes to match, given by the girls of the sewing school at Kingston Street, which she was attending before her marriage. An enjoyable evening was spent with music and games, after which refreshments were served. The invited guests were Misses Sibyl Page, Virginia Coley, Diana Darling, Renie Coles, Margaret Bird, Greta Shepherd, Margaret Larbeer, Madeline, Harriet, Frances and Georgina Muth, Lily Dalgoppl, Wanda-Elsie Hiller, Crystal Larbeer, Ruby Humphries, Emma Gildner, Mrs. Helen Lorbeer, Mrs. Martha Thidassen, Mrs. R. Debitot, Mr. and Mrs. H. Edel and Eleonore Edel, Mrs. Lorbeer and Mrs. Klassen.

The Misses Clara Frazer and Christine Schmelz were joint hostesses on Monday evening at a surprise party at the latter's home on Finlayson Avenue in honor of Miss Marjorie Murray, who is to be married shortly to Mr. Louis H. Schmelz. On her arrival the bride-to-be was presented with a corsage bouquet of yellow roses and mauve sweet peas, a similar corsage bouquet being also presented to her mother. The rooms were attractively arranged with baskets of roses tied with mauve tulle bows and bowls of mauve flowers. The many useful gifts of aluminum ware were cleverly disguised as the latest millinery, with the aid of mauve, green and white crepe paper, and were arranged on stands covered with green cloth to simulate a millinery department. Refreshments were served in the shape of dainty doll salads and an ice cream cake decorated with mauve horseshoes. The guests included Mrs. T. Murray, Mrs. L. Schmelz, Mrs. W. Kilby, Mrs. G. Frazer, Mrs. J. Collins, Mrs. R. Hibberd, Mrs. D. Lewis, Mrs. G. Laird, and the Misses Vera Kerslake, Hazel Haines, Doreen Mills, Kay Burnett, Lorna Doyle, Pearl Redknap, Edna Ruth Coates, Dorothy Peacock, Ruth Appleby, Isabelle and Thelma Isabister, Olive Kilby and Rita Gallie.

LANGFORD

Mrs. D. B. F. Bullen presided at the monthly meeting of the Women's Institute Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. R. J. Smith, secretary, read a petition from the residents of Leigh and Dunford roads to the public works department requesting these roads be tarred and repaired. This petition was endorsed.

Details of the provincial W.I. convention in Vancouver were read, but no delegate will be able to attend from Langford. The next meeting was arranged for July 12. The members and friends viewed a large number of handicrafts, curios and anti-ques displayed on table, around the room, also health posters and children's work which had been collected by Miss L. M. A. Savory.

Executive Women to Meet

Zonta International At Banff For Convention

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—The place of women in business and the professions will be discussed at the annual convention of Zonta International, organization of executive women, to be held here tomorrow and until July 2.

Recommendations passed by recent district conferences of the organization will be considered. These include opposition to restrictive legislation affecting adult women in business and the professions, and all forms of clerical work; objective equality of men and women in civil service without regard to marital status; creation of a suitable Zonta membership to Amelia Earhart, aviatrice; amendment of the National Labor Relations Act of the United States to place equal responsibility upon both labor and employers in the fulfillment of a contract.

Among events of particular interest is a form on "The Married Woman's Right to Work." The speaker on the affirmative side will be Dr. Helen Pearce, Willamette University, Salem, Oregon. Dr. Carrie Castle Dozier of Mills College, California, will represent the negative.

Contending the current recession has resulted in dismissal of married women from Civil Service positions in many parts of the United States, Zontians will discuss measures to discourage such trends.

The discussion of Industrial Relations will be conducted by Mrs. Lena M. Davidson, chairman of District 7, composed of clubs from California and Colorado. The recommendation for the Amendment of the National Labor Relations Act results from a social study of the subject made by Mrs. Davidson's district.

Several suggestions for the memorial to Amelia Earhart, formerly an active Zontian, will be considered. Whether it will take the form of a bust or plaque, a scholarship in aeronautics for a young woman, erection of a beacon, similar to the Lindberg beacon, or a research fellowship in science, will be decided.

Weavers' Display Set For Saturday

At their regular meeting held last evening, the exhibition committee of the W.I. Weaver's Guild reported final arrangements had been completed for the opening of the Handweaving Exhibition to be held in the Duke of Kent Room, Empress Hotel, on Saturday afternoon, July 2 at 3 p.m., when the public are cordially invited free.

There will be displays of weaving from Seattle, Vancouver and Victoria Weavers' Guilds, together with exhibits from the Squier Looms, Cedar, Vancouver Island, and the Island Weavers, Esquimalt. Demonstrations of weaving on treadle and table looms will be an interesting feature of the exhibition, it was reported.

Dr. K. C. McDonald, Minister of Agriculture, under whose province the Women's Institutes of the province function, will formally declare the exhibition open. The guild decided that the July general meeting would be canceled. Following the business of the meeting, Miss Margery Hill, the guild instructor, gave a very interesting talk and demonstration on a table loom of "Three Harness Weaving."

A monthly list of newly-discovered fraudulent companies is supplied to all post offices by the U.S. Post Office Department, with instructions that mail addressed to these concerns be stamped "fraudulent" and returned to the sender.

Rural Beauty Of England Precious

Says Lady Tweedsmuir In Address To Gloucester Audience

STOW-ON-THE-WOLD, Eng. (CP)—Lady Tweedsmuir told the Gloucestershire branch of the Council for the Preservation of Rural England she considered it the duty of the English people to preserve the beauty of their country for Canadian and other visitors.

The wife of Canada's Governor-General, in England for a holiday, said she had reached these shores in a fit of despondency after reading for two years in Canadian and American newspapers of demolition of historic village buildings to make room for garages and service stations.

Recently she took two Canadians around Oxford and heard them express horror at disappearance of historic buildings they had seen in the university town 20 years before.

"I beg you to watch the edges of your big towns," Lady Tweedsmuir declared. "Some fields on the bypass roads make one wonder how the descendants of the people who built Cirencester can make things so raucous and ugly."

"Artistically, some very dirty work has been done at those crossroads."

Lady Tweedsmuir described Canada as a country so "magnificently large" it could never really be spoiled.

Slow Progress Seen In Eugenics

OTTAWA—Eugenics is not a practicable program at present, both because we do not yet know enough about human heredity and because human social organizations are not adapted for the carrying out of such a program.

So declared Dr. Frank R. Lillie, president of the National Academy of Sciences, at the conclusion of an address delivered here last evening before the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

"Biological opinion is divided," Dr. Lillie said, "because our knowledge of human heredity is quite rudimentary as compared, for instance, with our knowledge of heredity in fruit flies or guinea pigs. Even if we felt sure that our knowledge of the principles of heredity in lower animals is theoretically fully applicable to mankind, we would not know how to apply it eugenically except in most general terms, for there are no pure lines in human inheritance for one thing, and for another, we have no animal analogies to the human qualities of character that we most need in the social process."

OPINIONS DIFFER

"Biological opinion is divided even on the subject of negative eugenics, the elimination of the unfit, not so much on the general desirability of the principle as on the definition of unfitness, the determination of standards and the methods to be employed," Dr. Lillie continued. "Sociological and political opinion is also divided sharply on the question of the trends of existing social, economic and political selective processes as they affect population, and the desirability of applying such a sharp instrument as radical eugenics to society before the possibilities of social amelioration in other ways are more fully explored. Under these conditions we should have institutes specially devoted to human genetics for the sake of the medical as well as of the social problems involved."

Prize-giving At Glenlyon School

A large gathering of parents and friends were at Glenlyon Preparatory School on Tuesday morning for the annual closing and prize-giving.

The headmaster, Ian Simpson, gave a brief resume of the school activities during the year, reporting a most satisfactory year in all branches. After referring to the games and extra-curricular of the school, he dealt at some length with the academic side and stressed the necessity of maintaining the school's reputation for classroom work. In this regard he told of the excellent reports he had received of boys who had recently left for senior schools in Canada and England, mentioning in particular Wilkinson at Shawinigan, Rolston at Royal Naval College, Dartmouth, and Lings at Clifton College, Bristol. He announced that Baker, head prefect, had this year been awarded a scholarship at Shawinigan.

Archdeacon A. E. de L. Nunns, after an inspiring talk to the boys, presented the prizes:

Salt Spring Island

On Saturday the school children of Ganges and the Divide schools held their break-up picnic at Vesuvius Beach. The day was spent in games, races and water sports, under the supervision of the various teachers and a number of parents and friends who accompanied them. After supper, a large bonfire was lighted, the party gathering round for community singing.

Captain F. M. Macintosh, M.P.P. for the Islands, Mrs. Macintosh and family arrived at Ganges on Saturday and will take up residence in property of Mrs. D. G. Crofton's, overlooking Ganges Harbor for two months.

Miss Betty Montleth of Victoria is spending several days at Ganges, the guest of Miss Betty Kingsbury.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Borradaile will leave this week on their yacht Deirdre for a cruise in northern British Columbia waters. They expect to be away about six weeks.

The Ganges Women's Institute met at Mahon Hall on Friday afternoon. Mrs. Norman Wilson presiding. A report was given by the president on the recent rose show, by which the sum of $12.50 was raised toward expenses of the new auxiliary and board room at the Gulf Islands Hospital. With reference to an application to the government for the appropriation of Mount Baynes as a park, Mrs. Wilson said she had received very encouraging letters from the Department of Public Works, who had given favorable consideration to the plan.

Pensioners To Start Branches

Officers of the Old Age Pensioners' Organization of British Columbia will shortly visit Victoria and other island points to establish branches. It was announced today by B. Stone Kennedy, official organizer.

The organization, it is stated, seeks to enable old age pensioners and prospective ones, 60 years and older, to join their companions in a campaign to secure amendments to the Old Age Pensions Act.

It would reduce the age limit to 65 years, raise the pension

Castor Oil For Drunks

The same old castor oil cure which keeps little Jimmy away from green apples is being used in Hutchinson, Kan., to keep a trio of regular police court visitors away from the bottle. After other methods had failed, Judge Albert S. Teed ordered administration of the evil-tasting stuff before an improvised bar lined with reminding bay rum bottles. With wry face, one of the trio, above, who makes money for bay rum spears by selling fish worms, receives the punitive dose from City Prosecutor Eugene White.

Ocean Airport Going Ahead

Newfoundland Transocean Base to Be Completed Next Year

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Newfoundland airport, giant project being constructed for transatlantic flights, could not be completed this season, Sir Wilfrid Woods, commissioner for public utilities declared on his return here after a visit to the airport.

Sir Wilfrid held a conference with P. G. Hudson of the staff of the works department of the British Air Ministry, and G. C. Kitts of the finance section of the air ministry while on the site.

Progress of the work to date was reviewed and the policy for the future was discussed. Approximately 600 men are engaged as active operations continue, and it is expected between 700 and 750 men will be employed on the undertaking when it reaches its peak. There will be steady employment for these men until the end of September.

The project, about 125 miles northwest of St. John's, is expected to become one of the most completely equipped combined land and seaplane bases in the world.

Nearby Gander Lake is to be used as the flying boat base, and will be officially known as Gander Lake. Preliminary tests last year were made from Botwood, but this was because Newfoundland airport was still under construction.

A fair-sized community has grown up at Newfoundland airport and the administration building is almost completed.

ONE OF LARGEST

The work will close down fairly tight this winter, the public utilities commissioner declared, with the exception of stone crushing. Work will be resumed again next May.

Experimental flights were made last year by Imperial Airways and Pan American Airways planes to Botwood from Foynes, Ireland, and Port Washington, N.Y., and resumption of those seaplane flights is expected toward the last of June. This would inaugurate the expert, mental airmail service. The first landplane to go to Newfoundland Airport would be sometime in August.

The project, about 125 miles northwest of St. John's, is expected to become one of the most completely equipped combined land and seaplane bases in the world.

Nearby Gander Lake is to be used as the flying boat base, and will be officially known as Gander Lake. Preliminary tests last year were made from Botwood, but this was because Newfoundland airport was still under construction.

A fair-sized community has grown up at Newfoundland airport and the administration building is almost completed.

The three-story building with a control tower on top measures 136 feet long by 80 feet wide. Its 80 rooms will provide offices and living accommodation for the airport's permanent staff. The power house and boiler house are nearing completion, a hangar in the course of erection, and the wireless receiving and transmitting stations are almost finished.

Thousands of tons of stone have been crushed into three grades to be used in surfacing the four huge runways. Last year about one-seventh of the total area of the giant runways was paved, and Sir Wilfrid said the work of paving the remainder of the area would start immediately.

The engineers were faced with a serious drainage problem in removing snow and rain that accumulated on the runways, but satisfactory adjustments were made. The water supply also proved difficult, the first idea of taking it from Gander Lake by pumping it to the airport having to be abandoned. It is proposed now to provide the supply by artesian wells.

Work proceeds steadily at the project that has brought Newfoundland into world prominence in flying activities as the time approaches for the first test of airmail flights, to be followed as soon as experiments prove satisfactory by a regular transatlantic passenger service linking Canada and the United States with the United Kingdom in approximately 12 hours.

STATE INSURANCE BILL EXPLAINED

CANBERRA, Australia.—In the course of a national broadcast, the Commonwealth Treasurer (R. G. Casey) explained various aspects of the national insurance scheme.

"You will join an approved society—any one of many that will be available to you," he said, referring to those who are eligible for insurance.

"You will get a card on which each week a stamp will be placed, the cost of which will be shared between you and your employer. When a suitable short waiting period has gone by, you will begin to be eligible for the benefits. You will, in the meantime, have chosen your doctor and put your name down on his list.

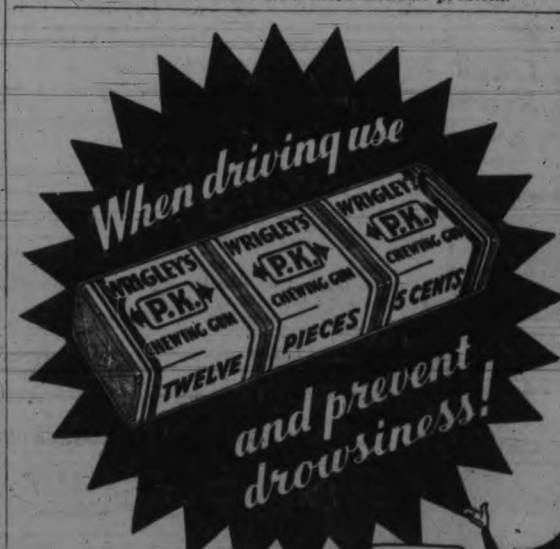

"Then if you are sick you get proper medical attention, and the medicines prescribed for you will cost you nothing. At the same time you will get a temporary pension for sick pay while you are sick and can't work. Apart from sick pay for yourself you will get 3s 6d (less than $1) per week for each dependent child. This sick pay will go on indefinitely no matter how long you are sick, although there will be a slight reduction in the amount after six months' sickness.

"If by bad chance you die, your widow will get a pension for life or until she remarries, again with an additional 3s 6d per week for each dependent child. If both you and your wife die your orphans will get 7s 6d per week until they reach the age of 15, but if you don't die, as probably you won't, you will get a pension at old-age pension age—without any inquiry as to your means or savings."

"There is also a fair—indeed a generous—provision for those who lose their jobs and can't contribute—called the "free insurance period" which, in some cases, is up to two years.

"This scheme applies only to those who work for someone else for salary or wages. A little later on we hope to be able to work out a scheme to cover self-employed people—that is, farmers, shopkeepers and others who work on their own account, but that is a more difficult problem."

Vander Meer Wins Ninth

Sports Mirror

By PETE SALLAWAY

JOHNNY VANDER MEER is a baseball movie hero who became real. The first pitcher to hurl consecutive no-hit, no-run games in organized baseball tipped his cap to a major league manager for the first time in Miami five springs ago, but he was not a bona fide recruit of the Brooklyn Dodgers. He was portraying a typical American boy getting a tryout.

The newsreel company which made the short sought a handsome lad who knew a baseball from a squash. Dave Driscoll, then business manager of the Dodgers, recommended the then 17-year-old Johnny Vander Meer, who had attracted his attention in a church league at the youngster's home in Little Midland Park, about eight miles out of Paterson, N.J.

Brooklyn lost title to Vander Meer through its failure to keep his transfer papers straight. Cincinnati purchased him from Nashville in 1936, after he had had a phenomenal season with Durham of the Piedmont League.

Vander Meer, a left-hander standing 5 feet 10 inches and weighing 175 pounds, is faster and more terrifying than Bob Feller, the young fireball flinger of the Cleveland Indians. Now just wild enough to be more effective, he really has the average big league hitter looser than ever at the plate. He is the National League's answer to Feller, the sport's newest big pitching name.

Yet outside of Cincinnati, they barely knew Johnny Vander Meer was in the National League until he chucked the first no-hitter against the Boston Bees the other afternoon. He duplicated the performance against the Dodgers at night. Pitching him in the moonlight is positively unfair.

Vander Meer tosses his leg way up in the air — goes through an elaborate motion. He is a left-handed Firpo Marberry — the schoolboy's idea of what a fast ball pitcher should look like. Vander Meer credits Bill McKee and Bob Grove, the man his manager sent him to, for the improved control that enabled him to turn in consecutive no-hit, no-run games for the first time in 100 years of baseball and to win seven engagements in a row.

At Tampa this spring, McKee told Vander Meer that he was letting go of the ball too early, and that this accounted for the fact that he was missing the plate by an inch or two. The Cincinnati pilot advised his great young southpaw to work on going through more with the pitch, holding on to the ball longer, and told him to relax a bit.

Vander Meer started to do this immediately, and believes that it helped him immensely. McKee says that the big muscle which Vander Meer has on the inside of his left arm — just above the elbow — is the strongest he ever saw on a pitcher.

"It may account for his speed and that fine curve," beams Williamsburg Will. "I just wouldn't know. It is not necessary for McKee to say that Vander Meer has more stuff right now than any other pitcher in the National League. But that is his answer to the question of how in the world the young man happened to hurl two no-hitters in a row.

"I cannot tell you how Johnny happened to be so good in those two games," says McKee. "It's beyond me, and probably nobody ever will know the answer. But I can say that he's a fine pitcher and has the stuff. For instance, that low curve ball of his, particularly in the late part of the game with the Bees, was practically unbeatable."

"Sometimes I'd do what he told me to do, and then again I'd forget it," says Vander Meer. "That accounted for my streakiness in the line of getting the ball over the plate."

While the Reds were coming north with the Boston Red Sox, McKee told Vander Meer to go to the clubhouse and talk with Lefty Grove. Old Lefty told the youngster that he had noticed that he finished his pitch with his right leg stiff.

"Send that right knee just a bit and it will help you in your pitch," Grove told the pleasant youngster who was to write pitching history. "It will give you the right follow through."

Los Angeles' Chuck Crowell, 218, Los Angeles, stopped Eddie Hogan, 219, New York (3).

Cincinnati Rookie Continues Brilliant Winning Streak; Cleveland Winner

It probably would be considered treason to mention such a thing in Rhineland, but there is a strong suspicion abroad in National League baseball circles that Cincinnati Reds might not look quite so good if their spurt had not coincided with the slumps of New York Giants and Chicago Cubs.

There's no detracting from the feats of Johnny Vander Meer, who won his ninth straight yesterday when the Reds whipped Pittsburgh 5 to 2 and who pitched one of Cincinnati's most persistent jinxes right out of Forbes Field at the same time. The Reds had lost 21 straight in the Pittsburgh park before they chalked up their first victory there since August, 1936. And such young fellows as Frank McCormick and Ival Goodman have done a lot toward changing the Reds from a last-place outfit into a pennant contender.

The Reds have won 14 of their last 20 games and climbed from fifth place to a spot 1½ games behind the league-leading Giants. While the Reds were on the upgrade, the Giants have been playing about 500 ball while the Cubs have lost 12 of their last 18.

BAD INJURIES

Both of these slumps can be partly explained by injuries. The Cubs didn't get the aid they hoped for from Dizzy Dean and in addition have had to get along for some time without "Sparkplug" Gabby Hartnett. The pre-season loss of Burgess Whitehead and the more recent injury to Joe Moore caused the Giants plenty of trouble which the acquisition of Alex Kampouris and Bob Seeds may have settled.

The Cubs took a 9 to 3 beating from St. Louis Cardinals yesterday and dropped 1½ games behind the Reds.

In the American League, Cleveland Indians increased their lead to 4½ games over the idle New York Yankees as they edged out a 5 to 4 decision over Detroit. A five-run blast, including homers by Hal Trosky and Ken Keltner, won the game in the second.

An exciting ninth inning in which Marvin Owen stole home just after Rip Radcliff belted a homer with two aboard enabled Chicago White Sox to beat St. Louis Browns in the day's other game.

The eastern clubs in both leagues were rained out.

COAST LEAGUE

Los Angeles' bespectacled Jack Salveson virtually singlehandedly slapped down the league-leading Sacramento Solons 3 to 2 and lifted Angels into second place in the Coast Baseball League. He allowed Senators' only five hits and struck out 10 last night. He hit a homer in the third inning and scored the second run of the game in the eighth. When Larry Barton, Sacramento first baseman, hit a homer with one on to tie the score, Salveson singled in the last of the ninth to drive in the Angels' third and winning run.

The lovely Oakland Acorns lifted a helping hand out of the circuit cellar by nosing out San Francisco Seals 2 to 1 and pulling them out of a second-place tie with Los Angeles.

Portland moved back into the first division by outthumping San Diego Padres in a slugfest for a 10 to 10 win. (Kewpie) Dick Barrett limited the fading Hollywood Stars to six hits to give Seattle a 4 to 1 win and a deadlock with San Diego for fifth and sixth place. Scores follow:

Showing the Complete Evolution of a No-hit, No-run Delivery

The above five poses show just what Johnny Vander Meer, Cincinnati's latest pitching sensation, goes through before he delivers his fast one. Vander Meer made baseball history recently when he pitched two consecutive no-hit no-run games. Yesterday the southpaw speedball artist beat Pittsburgh to register his ninth straight victory.

Softballers Play A 12-Inning Draw

Macdonalds and Longshoremen in Great Battle; Hollywood Beats Burns

Macdonalds and Victoria Longshoremen battled 12 fast, interesting innings last evening to a 3 to 3 draw at Sidney to terminate one of the snappiest A section softball encounters witnessed this season, as well as the longest.

Macdonalds flashed top form all evening and Manager Jim Lackie's stevedores, who need all the wins they can get from now on to get into the playoffs, had to put everything they had into the fight in order to gain a tie.

Going into the ninth the Longshoremen were trailing their opponents by one run 3 to 2 but in this frame they managed to elude home the tying marker. The skirmish continued for three extra innings before the game was halted owing to darkness.

From the combined offerings of Ralph Bonner and Bill Tesky Macdonalds secured 10 hits, while the Longshoremen got to Byers, opposing hillcock man, for eight base knocks.

At the present time the Longshoremen are holding down third berth and Macdonalds are in fifth place one step up from the cellar. Score by innings:

AN UPSET

The big upset of the evening was Hollywood Club's 10 to 7 victory over Manager Frank Shandley's second-place Burns Shamrocks. Playing at Victoria West Park Burns held the upper hand to the end of the sixth, but at this point the clubmen drew ahead and stayed there. Lionel Bradley started Hollywood off on their victory drive when he clouted a four-base knock in the first of the seventh to score Hornsby in front of him. The clubmen notched two more tallies in the eighth. They held the Shamrocks scoreless during the last three frames.

Vander Meer Wins Ninth

Sports Mirror

By PETE SALLAWAY

JOHNNY VANDER MEER is a baseball movie hero who came real. The first pitcher to hurl consecutive no-hit, no-run games in organized baseball tipped his cap to a major league manager for the first time in Miami five springs ago, but he was not a bona fide record of the Brooklyn Dodgers. He was portraying a typical American boy getting a tryout.

The newsreel company, which made the short sought a handsome lad who knew a baseball from a squash. Dave Driscoll, then business manager of the Dodgers, recommended the then 17-year-old Johnny Vander Meer, who had attracted his attention in a church league at the youngster's home in Little Midland Park, about eight miles out of Paterson, N.J.

Brooklyn lost little to Vander Meer through its failure to keep his transfer papers straight. Cincinnati purchased him from Nashville in 1936, after he had had a phenomenal season with Durham of the Piedmont League.

Vander Meer, a left-hander standing 5 feet 10 inches and weighing 175 pounds, is faster and more terrifying than Bob Feller, the young fireball flinger of the Cleveland Indians. Now just wild enough to be more effective, he really has the average big league hitter looser than ever at the plate. He is the National League's answer to Feller, the sport's newest big pitching name.

Yet outside of Cincinnati, they barely knew Johnny Vander Meer was in the National League until he chucked the first no-hitter against the Boston Bees the other afternoon. He duplicated the performance against the Dodgers at night. Pitching him in the moonlight is positively unfair.

Vander Meer tosses his leg 'way up in the air... goes through an elaborate motion. He is a left-handed Flippo Marberry... the schoolboy's idea of what a fast ball pitcher should look like. Vander Meer credits Bill McKeechie and Bob Grove, the man his manager sent him to, for the improved control that enabled him to turn in consecutive no-hit, no-run games for the first time in 100 years of baseball and to win seven engagements in a row.

At Tampa this spring, McKeechie told Vander Meer that he was letting go of the ball too early, and that this accounted for the fact that he was missing the plate by an inch or two. The Cincinnati pilot advised his great young southpaw to work on going through more with the pitch, holding on to the ball longer, and told him to relax a bit.

Vander Meer started to do this immediately, and believes that it helped him immensely. McKeechie says that the big muscle which Vander Meer has on the inside of his left arm—just above the elbow—is the strongest he ever saw on a pitcher.

"It may account for his speed and that fine curve," beams Willingsburg Will. "I just wouldn't know. It is not necessary for McKeechie to say that Vander Meer has more stuff right now than any other pitcher in the National League. But that is his answer to the question of how in the world the young man happened to hurl two no-hitters in a row.

"I cannot tell you how Johnny happened to be so good in those two games," says McKeechie. "It's beyond me, and probably nobody ever will know the answer. But I can say that he's a fine pitcher and has the stuff. For instance, that low curve ball of his, particularly in the late part of the game with the Bees, was practically unbeatable."

"Sometimes I'd do what he told me to do, and then again I'd forget it," says Vander Meer. "That accounted for my streakiness in the line of getting the ball over the plate."

While the Reds were coming north with the Boston Red Sox, McKeechie told Vander Meer to go to the clubhouse and talk with Lefty Grove. Old Lefty told the youngster that he had noticed that he finished his pitch with his right leg stiff.

"Bend that right knee just a bit and it will help you in your pitch," Grove told the pleasant youngster who was to write pitching history. "It will give you the right follow through."

Los Angeles—Chuck Crowell, 218, Los Angeles, stopped Eddie Hogan, 219, New York (3).

Cincinnati Rookie Continues Brilliant Winning Streak; Cleveland Winner

It probably would be considered treason to mention such a thing in Cincinnati, but there is a strong suspicion abroad in National League baseball circles that Cincinnati Reds might not look quite so good if their spurt had not coincided with the slumps of New York Giants and Chicago Cubs.

There's no detracting from the feats of Johnny Vander Meer, who won his ninth straight yesterday, when the Reds whipped Pittsburgh 5 to 2 and who pitched one of Cincinnati's most persistent jinxes right out of Forbes Field at the same time. The Reds had lost 21 straight in the Pittsburgh park before they chalked up their first victory there since August, 1936. And such young fellows as Frank McCormick and Ival Goodman have done a lot toward changing the Reds from a last-place outfit into a pennant contender.

The Reds have won 14 of their last 20 games and climbed from fifth place to a spot 1½ games behind the league-leading Giants. While the Reds were on the upgrade, the Giants have been playing about 500 ball while the Cubs have lost 12 of their last 18.

BAD INJURIES

Both of these slumps can be partly explained by injuries. The Cubs didn't get the aid they hoped for from Dizzy Dean and in addition have had to get along for some time without "Sparkplug" Gabby Hartnett. The pre-season loss of Burgess Whitehead and the more recent injury to Joe Moore caused the Giants plenty of trouble which the acquisition of Alex Kampouris and Bob Seeds may have settled.

The Cubs took a 9 to 3 beating from St. Louis Cardinals yesterday and dropped 1½ games behind the Reds.

In the American League, Cleveland Indians increased their lead to 4½ games over the idle New York Yankees as they edged out a 5 to 4 decision over Detroit. A five-run blast, including homers by Hal Trosky and Ken Keltner, won the game in the second.

An exciting ninth inning in which Marvin Owen stole home just after Rip Radcliff belted a homer with two aboard enabled Chicago White Sox to beat St. Louis Browns in the day's other game.

The eastern clubs in both leagues were rained out.

COAST LEAGUE

Los Angeles' bespectacled Jack Salveson virtually singlehandedly slapped down the league-leading Sacramento Solons 3 to 2 and lifted Angels to second place in the Coast Baseball League.

He allowed Senators only five hits and struck out 10 last night. He hit a homer in the third inning and scored the second run of the game in the eighth. When Larry Barton, Sacramento first baseman, hit a homer with one on to tie the score, Salveson singled in the last of the ninth to drive in the Angels' third and winning run.

The lowly Oakland Aconns lifted a helping hand out of the circuit cellar by nailing out San Francisco Seals 2 to 1 and pulling them out of a second-place tie with Los Angeles.

Portland moved back into the first division by outpitching the San Diego Padres in a slugfest for a 11 to 10 win. (Kewpie) Dick Barrett limited the fading Hollywood Stars to six hits to give Seattle a 4 to 1 win and a deadlock with San Diego for fifth and sixth place. Scores follow:

Softballers Play A 12-Inning Draw

Macdonalds and Longshoremen in Great Battle; Hollywood Beats Burns

Macdonalds and Victoria Longshoremen battled 12 fast, interesting innings last evening to a 3 to 3 draw at Sidney. To terminate one of the snappiest A section softball encounters witnessed this season, as well as the longest.

Macdonalds flashed top form all evening and Manger Jim Lackie's stevedores, who need all the wins they can get from now on to get into the playoffs, had to put everything they had into the fight in order to gain a tie.

Going into the ninth the Longshoremen were trailing their opponents by one run 3 to 2 but in this frame they managed to elude the home tieing marker for three extra innings before the game was halted owing to darkness.

From the combined offerings of Ralph Bonner and Bill Tesky Macdonalds secured 10 hits, while the Longshoremen got to Byers, opposing hitcock man, for eight base knocks.

At the present time the Longshoremen are holding down third berth and Macdonalds are in fifth place one step up from the cellar. Score by innings:

AN UPSET

The big upset of the evening was Hollywood Club's 10 to 7 victory over Manager Frank Shandley's second-place Burns Shamrocks. Playing at Victoria West Park Burns held the upper hand to the end of the sixth, but at this point the clubmen drew ahead and stayed there.

Lionel Bradley started Hollywood off on their victory drive when he clouted a four-base knock in the first of the seventh to score Hornsby in front of him. The clubmen notched two more tallies in the eighth. They held the Shamrocks scoreless during the last three frames.

When British Columbia's top-ranking amateur golfers tee off on Friday at Vancouver in the annual provincial amateur championship the defending champion, Kenny Lawson, Victoria, will not be among the field. Lawson announced this morning he would not defend the crown he won last year at Uplands, defeating the late Russ Case in the 36-hole final.

Jimmy Todd, Victoria's holder of the British Columbia open championship, won last year over his home course, Oak Bay, is another doubtful starter. When questioned this morning Todd stated he did not think it would be possible for him to take in the tournament.

Although Victoria's two first-ranking amateurs will not be contenders this city will be well represented. It was learned today the following players will make the trip for the provincial meet: Vic and Freddy Painter, Ted Colgate, A. S. G. Musgrave, G. K. Veley, Art Christopher and Len Woodhouse.

Burrards Score Last-minute Win

VANCOUVER—Big Bill Morphet scored a goal with 13 seconds left to play last night to give Vancouver Burrards a 16 to 15 decision over North Shore Indians and put them in undisputed third place in the standings of the Inter-city Box Lacrosse League.

Burrards led 10 to 7 at the half but an Indian drive tied the score in the third quarter. The lead seasawed back and forth throughout the final quarter until Morphet's goal put Burrards on top just before the whistle.

TONY GALENTO GETS WARNING

Colorful New Jersey Heavyweight Advised Not to Fight John Henry Lewis

NEW YORK—The New York State Athletic Commission yesterday warned "Two Ton" Tony Galento, Orange, N.J., heavyweight, that they would take action against him if he went through with his bout with light-heavyweight champion John Henry Lewis, scheduled for Philadelphia July 26.

The commission based its warning on the fact that Lewis has refused to accept a challenge to defend his title against Tiger Jack Fox of Spokane, Wash., and they will not permit any fighter licensed in New York to meet Lewis until he does accept the challenge.

Galento appeared at yesterday's commission meeting with his lawyer, Charles White. After the meeting White announced that Galento would go through with the Lewis bout.

Baseball Nines Battle Tonight

Pitzer and Nex baseballers will go gunning for the scalps of the navy tonight at the Athletic Park in an important Humphries Cup fixture. The game will start at 6.15 with Steve Redgrave calling the balls and strikes and Renfree watching the bases.

The sailors turned back the Victoria Club, 9 to 8, Monday evening, after a thrilling scrap and have hopes of defeating the gasmen tonight. Another victory for the navymen will give the Victoria Ball Club the silverware, but if Pitzer and Nex win a two-way tie will be created for top place, which will necessitate a playoff to decide the cup winners.

MONETARY VIEWS

Heard By M.P.'s

OTTAWA—The bill to nationalize the Bank of Canada was given third reading by the House of Commons yesterday. Under it the government will acquire the 100,000 shares now in the hands of the public.

During the debate, G. G. McGeer, Liberal, Vancouver-Burrard, urged steps be taken to carry out an investigation to ascertain whether it was advisable to establish the Bank of Canada as an actual bank for the Canadian government, and provincial and municipal governments, with cheque and deposit services.

Belief formation of a new monetary party under the leadership of Hon. D. W. Herridge was under way as made by Hon. C. H. Cahan, Conservative, St. Lawrence-St. George, Montreal, who suggested Mr. McGeer might be second in command and that the party might include the Social Credit group.

Mr. Cahan indignantly disputed Mr. McGeer's suggestion Mr. Herridge was enunciating Conservative policy in his speech at Halifax Monday. He suggested the former minister to the United States and brother-in-law of Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, had in mind a new movement and predicted certain defeat for him. Mr. Bennett sat beside Mr. Cahan at the time.

(In his Halifax speech Mr. Herridge charged reactionary forces controlled both the Liberal and Conservative parties and were seeking to form a national government.)

Mr. Cahan, said he was in accord with the Bank of Canada bill, but felt it would increase and strengthen the demands of those who would substitute "the printing press and tokens" for sound commercial exchange.

The sooner a fight was started the better, he added. If it was coming he hoped it would be within his lifetime (he is 77), so that he could get into it.

"Let the honorable gentleman be not too sure the fight of which he spoke will not come," said Mr. McGeer. "But let him not discount the intelligence of the Canadian people because they have been bamboozled too long by the kind of arguments he has presented today which tell only a small portion of the truth."

Calgary Appeals $50 Relief Fine

CALGARY (CP)—The city of Calgary yesterday was fined $50 for failure to provide adequate unemployment relief for George A. Mills. It was the first conviction here under the Bureau of Relief and Public Welfare Act.

T. W. Collinge, city solicitor, indicated the judgment would be appealed. It was agreed, however, Mills would be granted unemployment relief pending the appeal.

FATAL TRAIN CRASH

WEYBURN, Sask. (CP)—W. Weiden, 46, was injured fatally yesterday when the automobile he was driving was hit by a Canadian Pacific Railway passenger train at Collins Crossing, just north of McTaggart. The train smashed into the side of the car.

Next Wednesday after 5 a mixed greensome competition will be played at the Victoria Golf Club over the inside nine holes, to be followed by a buffet supper in the clubhouse. Players will choose their partners, arrange for their opponents and starting times and make post entries at the office. Prizes for winners and runners-up.

Fall Business Gains Foretold

OTTAWA (AP)—America has already reached, or will reach late in 1938, the bottom of the present depression, Leonard P. Ayres, economist of the Cleveland Trust Company, told the American Association for the Advancement of Science here yesterday.

Characterizing the United States government's $3,753,000,000 spending program as "politically primed prosperity," Ayres admitted it will spur business activity and that "American resources are so great that they can support such a program for a long time to come."

However, he added, "this is a very serious condition, for the long run the new system of political prosperity can be made to work well enough to destroy gradually the habits of self-help and enterprise on which a free society depends."

NEW CONTROL

As the United States enters on its "second vast experiment in pump priming" it is well on the way toward the control of business "by persons whose principal occupation is not industry, finance, agriculture, or trade, but the winning of elections," he told the association's economics section.

Nevertheless, he said, business, after continuing its present slump through August, will probably pick up materially from September through December and on into 1939. The two major influencing factors will be the course of business abroad, which may restrict but not prevent recovery, and the growing crisis among American railroads.

Sound recovery in the United States and Canada will not get under way, he added, until the national income produced in the two countries stops shrinking, and it must be based on the production of such "durable" goods as building materials, machinery, automobiles, furniture, bridges, ships and locomotives.

Courtland Elliott, Toronto economist, echoed Ayres' predictions at the same meeting.

BRITISH COLUMBIA SCENES All Canada Knows...

Vancouver, B.C.

Scene in Victoria, B.C.

ALL Canadians take pride in British Columbia's progress, because Canada as a whole has taken part in it. Every Canadian Province has contributed to British Columbia's population, and has a large financial stake in British Columbia's industries, mines and other primary undertakings.

Hence British Columbia's amazing commercial development and increasing contribution to the economic and cultural life of the Dominion is a very bright spot on the domestic horizon.

The Automotive Industry of Canada speaks for all industries in calling attention to the interdependence of the people of this Dominion.

For instance, you in British Columbia who drive cars, have purchased millions of workmen's hours. More than 130,000 people dependent upon the Automotive Industries feel the influence of British Columbia's purchasing power.

But the transaction does not end there. It only begins. Millions of dollars are spent by the Industrial East in the Prairie Provinces, for foodstuffs, whence, in turn, orders go to British Columbia factories and producers. Thus money spent on Canadian workmen's products distributes itself many times throughout Canada. ONE busy man keeps more than TEN busy! Exchange is the life of trade — and trade supports your homes in British Columbia — your neighbours' in the Prairie Provinces — and ours in Eastern Canada.

British Columbia shipped to Eastern Canada last year over 7,200,000 lbs. canned salmon; over 180,000,000 board feet of lumber; approximately 425,000 cases of apples, (to designate three specific items); while from the Port of Vancouver were shipped over 23,000 tons of automobiles and trucks enroute to Australia and New Zealand.

Morgan Adams of Enchantress Sees B.C. Property For First Time

Surveying for the first time island property he purchased some years ago, Morgan Adams, president of the Mortgage Guarantee Corporation of Los Angeles, who reached Victoria last Saturday aboard the schooner-rigged yacht Enchantress, is today at Gooch Island, near Sidney. Enchantress left her berth at the Enterprise wharf early today and proceeded to Gooch Island, in the Gulf of Georgia.

It was the original intention of the owner to build a country residence on the property, but his present plans have not been disclosed.

After visiting Gooch Island, Mr. and Mrs. Adams and a party of guests will sail along the Vancouver Island and B.C. coasts en route to Alaska, fishing and hunting.

From Sitka, their northernmost call, they will get sail for Hawaii.

Extension For B.C. Electric

Will Use Water From Goldstream Reservoir Until Further Discussion

The city's agreement with the B.C. Electric Railway Company, whereby the latter has been using water from the Goldstream reservoir for the last few years at $18,000 per annum, will be terminated tomorrow at midnight.

A. T. Goward, vice-president, this morning called on Mayor McGavin at the City Hall, and after a brief conference was given permission by the mayor to continue use of the water for another month.

The matter will be more fully discussed when R. W. Beck, United States public utilities expert, arrives here early in July to advise the city on the B.C. Electric franchise, which will end this year.

The mayor was advised that Mr. Beck reached Washington this morning from New York on his way to Victoria.

Elected B.C. Druggist Head

Charles W. Burr, Victoria, Named President of Pharmaceutical Association

Charles W. Burr, president of the Greater Victoria Retail Druggists' Association, was elected president of the Pharmaceutical Association of British Columbia at the annual meeting of the organization held recently at Vancouver.

Mr. Burr, proprietor of the Hillside Pharmacy, Victoria, is now serving his second two-year term as a member of the council of the Pharmaceutical Association of British Columbia.

Charles Wood, Vancouver, was chosen vice-president. At the annual meeting the association accepted an invitation to hold the 1939 meeting in Victoria. It was also decided to extend an invitation to the Canadian Pharmaceutical Association to meet in Vancouver in 1940 when the provincial association will celebrate its golden jubilee.

Thief Discards One Car, Takes Another

Police today searched the city for an auto thief who is apparently making a habit of spending his time driving in stolen cars.

Last night the thief who stole a car owned by Mrs. D. R. Drury of California, from Newport Avenue, abandoned it in a field on Rockland Avenue and is believed to have walked down the street and stolen a car owned by Deaconess M. Robinson.

The Drury car was recovered about 8:30. It had a large hole cut in the roof, which was used to gain access and the radio, seat covers and tools were missing. The license plates were bent so as to make identification difficult. Two hours later Deaconess Robinson reported her car stolen from outside the Memorial Hall. The number of her car is 14-848.

At the time the Drury car was stolen on Monday night a car stolen earlier in the evening was found on Newport Avenue nearby.

URGE EARLIER RETIRING AGE

Commons Committee Recommends Men Leave Civil Service at 65

OTTAWA (CP)—Compulsory retirement of all male civil servants at 65 years of age and of female civil servants at 60 was recommended today in the report of the special civil service committee of the House of Commons.

The report, as tabled in the House by Jean Francois Pouliot, Liberal, Temiscouata, Que., recommended that a standing committee on civil service matters be appointed at each session of Parliament.

The clause dealing with the proposed arbitrary age limit said the committee "is of the opinion that this would materially increase the efficiency of the civil service, would facilitate promotion and create a brighter outlook for the future of the younger people in the service or desirous of entering therein."

The present age for compulsory retirement in the civil service is 70 for males and females, though voluntary retirement may take place any time after 65. There is also provision in the present act for extension to 75 years by Order-in-Council.

The committee also recommended no married woman shall be employed even temporarily under her maiden name, and that the preference granted to war veterans apply when such persons are British subjects and resident in Canada before the Great War.

BIG AGENDA BEFORE C.C.F.

Possible Appointment of Provincial Leader to Be Debated at Kamloops

VANCOUVER (CP)—More than 150 resolutions submitted by Co-operative Commonwealth Federation clubs through the province will form a major part of the business before the 100 delegates expected to attend the annual convention of the party's British Columbia section in Kamloops July 1, 2 and 3.

Principal resolutions deal with appointment of a leader for the C.C.F. group of seven members in the Legislature, the C.C.F. stand on foreign affairs, formation of a "popular front" with other Socialist groups, and organization of the party in British Columbia.

Last year the C.C.F. members had no official leader and the Kamloops convention may decide to continue another year in that fashion. But the matter must come before the meeting for discussion.

One brief resolution from Vancouver urges election of a House leader by the convention. Another Vancouver club suggests the leader be elected by a general vote amongst C.C.F. membership.

Three names have been mentioned for the position in party circles. Leading candidates at the 1937 annual meeting were Dr. Lyle Telford and Harold Winch, both members for Vancouver East riding, and they are still in the running according to party spokesmen.

MRS. STEEVES MENTIONED

However, these spokesmen said, Mrs. Dorothy Steeves, member for North Vancouver, might be a compromise choice if difficulty were experienced in naming one of the men.

If so, Mrs. Steeves, former legal adviser to the Dutch government, would become the first woman in the British Empire to lead a party in any Legislature. Suggestion the convention recommend to the national convention at Edmonton next month that a definite foreign affairs policy be drafted and included in the party manifesto is included in one resolution.

Spokesmen said there were two main camps in the provincial party organization—one, urging collective security against aggressor nations the other, no participation in war conducted by the present Canadian or British government.

One club demands an immediate embargo by the Dominion Government on shipments of munitions or war materials to Japan; another asks the embargo on war materials to the Spanish government be lifted.

Membership opinion varies in regard to a "popular front" with other organizations, resolutions submitted for convention consideration show.

PROBLEM FOR JUDGES

POCAHELLO, Idaho (AP)—Judges who must select "Miss Idaho" at a forthcoming beauty contest are perplexed. Elsie, Ethel and Edna Seelos, blonde, 16-year-old triplets, entered "as a unit." It's all or none.

Further Talks On Alaska Highway

VANCOUVER (CP)—Premier Pattullo, who arrived in Vancouver today, told interviewers he had discussed the Alaska Highway project with United States representative Anthony Dimond in Victoria yesterday.

The Premier will sail for Prince Rupert tonight. "The discussion was a continuation of conversations I had while in Washington recently," the Premier said. "Representative Dimond expressed hope that President Roosevelt would name the commission to study the highway scheme this year."

The Premier will be back from Prince Rupert Monday.

CHORLEY PARK AUCTION ENDS

Rocking Chair in Which Princes Sat Brings $3.50 at Toronto Sale

TORONTO (CP)—Long a stopping place for princes and potentates, Ontario's Government House was just a bare, out-of-date old home today, stripped of its fine furnishings and fittings.

In the big ballroom last night an auctioneer droned out the words that sold the last of Chorley Park's ancient furniture.

Someone bought a 97-pound, six-foot rocking chair for $3.50 after the auctioneer had announced gravely the Prince of Wales and the Duke of York sat in it at the same time. Some of the customers laughed a little.

Premier Hepburn, responsible for abandoning the mansion as the official home of Ontario's Lieutenant-Governors, has offered it now to the board of governors of the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children. So far it has not been accepted, for Chorley Park is not centrally located and the hospital authorities fear modernizing and equipping the building would be costly.

Chinese Hold Yangtze Boom

Claim Japanese Have Not Broken Barrier on Way to Hankow

SHANGHAI (AP)—Chinese declared Wednesday they still held the important Matowchen boom, barrier to Japan's drive up the Yangtze River against Hankow.

But the trend of what may be a crucial battle in defence of the provisional capital, 175 miles up river from the boom, was obscured behind cautious communiques from both sides.

Chinese, who earlier had acknowledged loss of one of several forts guarding the barrier of Okaka, rock-laden junks, said fighting still was raging in the area.

Japanese would not discuss their brief war bulletins in detail and made no claims to possession of the boom itself.

PLANES BUSY

Both sides issued conflicting reports of aerial warfare in the middle Yangtze River valley.

Japanese declared continued heavy air raids in the sector had inflicted new losses on Chinese aviation.

Chinese replied with denials of Japanese air victories. They asserted Chinese planes operating from Hankow were harassing Japanese river and land forces.

Herbert Hoover Coming to B.C.

SEATTLE (AP)—An hour's public reception, followed by a private dinner, was planned today by state Republican leaders for former President H. Hoover after his arrival at 5:30 p.m. from the south, headed on a two-weeks' British Columbia fishing trip.

Arthur R. Hyde, Trenton, Mo., Secretary of Agriculture in the Hoover cabinet, arrived today to join the party. Accompanying Hoover from California are Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford University and former Secretary of the Interior under Hoover.

CHINESE SLAIN IN SHANGHAI

SHANGHAI (AP)—Shen Telling, director of the shipping control bureau of the Japanese-occupied Shanghai reformed government, was assassinated today.

His death was the fifth political murder in 10 days by alleged anti-Japanese elements operating against Chinese puppet officials of the Japanese.

New Crop Wheat Gains Fraction

WINNIPEG (CP)—New-crop Winnipeg wheat futures maintained fractional gains at the close of a drab session today in which bulk of dealings involved switching of holding from July to the deferred positions. Final values were one lower to 84, higher, July 84.02, October 84.12 to 84.16, November 83.84 and December 84.12 cents.

All wheat futures advanced about a cent or more in early operations, influenced by disappointing precipitation in western Canada overnight and steadiness on Chicago.

Chicago failed to hold its mid-session gains due to light buying power and lack of export demand. Liverpool closed 5/16 to 5/16 lower. Buenos Aires was on holiday.

Cash wheat again was neglected. Spreads on Nos. 1, 2 and 3 northern grades eased about a cent but drums were steady on odd-car sales.

Coarse-grain dealings picked up today with mills entering the market for oats and rye being purchased against sales at Chicago. Some export demand for barley also was mentioned. Prices advanced slightly higher near the close.

Chicago failed to hold its mid-session gains due to light buying power and lack of export demand. Liverpool closed 5/16 to 5/16 lower. Buenos Aires was on holiday.

Cash wheat again was neglected. Spreads on Nos. 1, 2 and 3 northern grades eased about a cent but drums were steady on odd-car sales.

Coarse-grain dealings picked up today with mills entering the market for oats and rye being purchased against sales at Chicago. Some export demand for barley also was mentioned. Prices advanced slightly higher near the close.

Hatchets and Axes

Now and then we may hear a person say, "Let's bury the hatchet!"

By those words, he means, "Let's end our quarrel and have peace!" His statement goes back to an old Indian custom. Sometimes a tribe would bury a tomahawk at the end of a war, as a mark to show that the fighting was over. If a new war came, the old tomahawk was dug up.

Eight stone-bladed axes of modern Papua.

The tomahawk was the Indian's hatchet or small axe. It was used in battle, and many warriors could throw it with deadly aim.

In olden times in Europe, soldiers fought with battle-axes. It was a horrible custom, but no more horrible than present-day fighting with bayonets. To most of us, the dropping of bombs on people in cities seems far worse than any method of warfare followed by savages, or by soldiers of the Middle Ages.

White traders brought steel-bladed hatchets to the Indians, and in return were given skins of bears, beavers or other animals.

The Indians were glad to lay aside the stone-bladed tomahawk and use the steel hatchet instead. They found the hatchet much better for cutting firewood, stakes and for other work of the kind.

Pioneers on this continent found hatchets and axes most helpful in their daily lives. With axes of one kind or another, they cut down trees and used the logs to build cabins for themselves and their families. They also cut thousands and thousands of trees, to clear the land for farms.

Here is a description of old-time lumbermen at work:

"The two men stand on opposite sides of the giant tree, and swing their gleaming axes. The blows ring quick and fast, and the chips skim through the air as if shot out of the tree. At last the giant falls to the ground with a crash, tumbling just where the ax-men wanted it to fall."

Today many trees are felled by huge saws worked by two men, or by power-driven saws. We still have great numbers of men, however, who skillfully chop down trees with axes.

The axe was one of the main tools of the Stone Age in Europe, and it remains an important tool today. Firemen use axes while fighting fires, and many a farm stove is fed with wood split by axes.

Over in Papua (also called New Guinea) some natives still use stone tools. Among their tools are stone-bladed axes or hatchets which they employ in making dug-out canoes.

HOROSCOPE

Thursday, June 30, 1938.

As the month closes, kindly stars rule strongly, according to astrology. This is one of the rare days when lovers of the finer things in life should benefit.

Women are subject to stimulating influences that enable them to make the best of their talents. Actresses and musicians should be fortunate under this sway.

Under this configuration the poetic impulse may be active and romance is likely to flourish, even among persons no longer young.

Good luck attends whatever is started, even a flirtation, while this planetary government prevails. It is an auspicious day for entertaining informally.

Real estate is subject to favorable influences and those who buy and sell should profit. Home building remains subject to good promises from the stars.

Aged persons should benefit in unusual ways. Economic independence will come to many as pension plans are carried out.

Dairies are to gain importance in coming months when strange food problems will develop. Diet is to be discussed more and more due to many serious cases of poisoning.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of extraordinary experiences which are fortunate. Romances are forecast for many.

Children born on this day may be ambitious and able to attain public notice. Subjects of this sign usually benefit through publicity which they court.

LAI'D UP FOR WEEKS BY SCIATICA

At 76 Kruschen Conquered His Complaint

At 86 years of age, this man is still going strong, yet 10 years ago he was laid up for weeks with an attack of sciatica. Read how he keeps fit in spite of his advanced age:

"Ten years ago I was laid up for about a month with a severe attack of sciatica. I was quite unable to sleep and I suffered a great deal. I tried several remedies, but obtained little relief. At last I saw one of your advertisements, and decided to give Kruschen a trial. I stuck to it and took about half a teaspoonful every morning in my coffee and my sciatica gradually went. I was 86 last month—still going strong—and my friends ask me how I keep my clear skin and healthy looks. I tell them all it is due to Kruschen Salts."

Whether you are in your 'teens or past your prime, it is neither too early nor too late to start on the "little daily dose." Just a tiny, tasteless, pinch in your morning tea or coffee—that's the Kruschen rule for constant fitness. (Adv't.)

"Pick-a-Back" Plane Ready For Take-off

Around the Docks

PRIMERQ ALONGSIDE

Norwegian Ms. Primerq warped alongside the south berth at Pier A—Canadian National docks, at 10:30 last night from Cowichan Bay, and commenced stowing 750,000 feet of lumber this morning. Clearing from this port Friday she will carry a total cargo of 4,600,000 feet of lumber for delivery at Boston and Philadelphia.

Primerq is owned by the Ivarans Rederi, Oslo, Norway. Capt. Leif Langehoff, her master, has been with her ever since she was built at Copenhagen 14 years ago.

Before coming to this coast from Japan the motorship was engaged in the New York-Buenos Aires trade.

Capt. Langehoff states that his company is building in Sweden four new motorships designed to develop a speed of 15 knots. The first of these ships, the Ivaran, was recently completed and put into commission.

MAIL BOAT HERE

On her trial trip, the Diesel-powered cruiser Tahoe, built for the transport of mails between Seattle and Victoria, was at the Enterprise wharf yesterday.

The operators of the new vessel have contracted with George Willis to use the Enterprise wharf for the discharge and loading of mails.

The first regular trip to Victoria with mails from Seattle via Port Townsend and Port Angeles will be made by the Tahoe on Friday, when the new U.S. mail contract becomes effective.

The craft is equipped with a 150 horsepower Cooper-Besseman diesel engine. She is 65 feet long. The Tahoe was specially built at Seattle for the Victoria mail service.

STEAMS FOR FANNING

Bound for Fanning Island to effect trans-Pacific cable repairs, Ss. Restorer, Capt. C. M. C. Fleming, passed to sea from Vancouver at 10 last night. Restorer, which makes her base at Victoria, proceeded earlier in the week to Vancouver to fill her tanks with fuel oil before steaming for the mid-Pacific island, famed for its invasion by the Nurnburg during the World War.

NIAGARA TOMORROW

No further change has been made in the arrival time of the Canadian-Australasian liner Niagara. Capt. William Martin, ship's commander, expects to reach quarantine at 7:30 tomorrow night, which will bring the liner alongside Pier 2, Rithet docks, at 8:30. Niagara has a good list of passengers, including a number routed through Canada to England. Her cargo consists of the usual products of Australia and New Zealand.

ALICE FOR NORTH

After bringing an excursion here from Vancouver on Friday, Ss. Princess Alice, which has been completely overhauled during the spring, will enter the Alaska service, sailing north from Vancouver on Saturday night, it was stated at the B.C. Coast Service offices this morning.

Princess Alice will assist in maintaining the summer tourist schedule to northern British Columbia and Alaska in conjunction with the Princess Charlotte and Princess Louise.

Louise will sail from Vancouver at 9 tonight for the north.

Imperial Airways Planning to Resume Trans-Atlantic-Canada Flights Next Week

MONTREAL—Early next week the Imperial Airways sea-plane Mercury will detach itself from the back of its mother plane, the Maia, and speed across the Atlantic on a nonstop flight from Foyines, Eire, to Montreal. Awaiting word of the take-off, Montreal is ready for the first of this summer's experimental flights across the ocean.

Boucherville, 18 miles from here on the St. Lawrence, will be the terminus, as it was last year for the Caledonia and the Cambria.

Trans-Canada Air Lines, representatives of the Imperial Airways in the Dominion, are in charge of arrangements. The Department of Transport is giving its co-operation and providing landing stage, moorings and buoys. J. Gilmore, ground engineer for Imperial Airways, has taken up residence at Boucherville and will be here all summer. It is expected that the Mercury will stay here only long enough to refuel and then will go directly to New York.

LAUNCHED IN MID-AIR

Only about half the size of the big flying boats that crossed the Atlantic last summer, the Mercury will nevertheless come with a glamour of its own. It is part of the "short mayo" apparatus popularly known as the "pick-a-back." Carried on the back of a larger craft, the Maia, it is launched in mid-air. The reason for the composite, Trans-Canada officers explained today, is to make possible a plane carrying a greater load than it would be able to lift into the air. Under its own power, rising alone, the Mercury's gross weight could be no more than 14,500 pounds. Assisted, a total of 20,500 pounds is possible. The Mercury carries 1,200 gallons of fuel.

Carrying 1,000 pounds of mails it will have a range of approximately 3,500 miles, at a speed of from 160 to 170 miles an hour. This, according to Imperial Airways officers, is sufficient for a north Atlantic crossing in the face of a continuous headwind of as much as 60 miles an hour.

Rearmament To Aid C.N.R. Men

Shops Surveyed For Production of Defence Supplies, Says Mackenzie

OTTAWA (CP)—Fresh hopes of employment were held today by nearly 1,800 Canadian National Railway shop workers because of Canada's modernization and enlargement of her defences and Great Britain's race to complete rearment.

The war days of 1914-18 were recalled by Defence Minister Ian Mackenzie's announcement last night that C.N.R. car and motive power shops were being surveyed by his department to determine their availability and suitability for turning out war goods.

During the Great War huge quantities of war supplies, chiefly shell casings, were produced in the shops of the railways now comprising the Canadian National system.

Mr. Mackenzie emphasized that the Defence Department survey was concerned only with production for the Canadian defence forces and he warned there was no prospect of these orders being large enough to keep the C.N.R. shops busy.

It was learned, however, there is a possibility and an immediate prospect of orders for munitions and war supplies from Great Britain being placed with the C.N.R. shops.

TRAFFIC SWING

Because of traffic volume reductions the C.N.R. has been forced to order a 25 per cent reduction in working crews at its car and motive shops stretched from the Atlantic to the Pacific. It is hoped employment of these men may be continued by munitions and armament orders.

Mr. Mackenzie's announcement that Defence Department inspectors had already looked over some C.N.R. shops came after he had heard a suggestion from a Stratford, Ont., deputiation that tanks might be made at the C.N.R. shops there. The minister said an inspection would be made immediately at the Stratford shops.

The relief burden on the Ontario city threatened to become unbearable, the deputiation said.
